Stevens Foundation: Backing the community

By Don Staruk

Wouldn't it be nice if Andover had a rich uncle (or aunt) who, although not doling out cash on a day-to-day basis, could help in a pinch to bolster certain institutions and programs that add to the cultural well-being of the community?

Well, it does. Sort of.

The 38-year-old Stevens Foundation, actually two foundations, was started in 1943 to support non-profit agencies throughout the Greater Lawrence area.

The foundations have partially funded historical restoration projects such as the West Parish and South Church steeples, the Old Town Hall and South Church organ refurbishments and Christ Church parish hall improvements.

Conservation land has been purchased for the Andover Village Improvement Society, performances underwritten for the now-defunct Andover Endowment for

American Legion Post 8 Losing its patriotic members

By Lisa Boudreau

Clarence Johnson, commander of Andover's American Legion Post 8, doesn't march in town parades any more. Instead, for the past three years, the 80-year-old has opted to ride in a car.

This coming Memorial Day, May 1992, may be Mr. Johnson's and the Andover post's last official patriotic observance. He's been a member of Post 8 for the past 45 years, but this year may be his last.

"If by Memorial Day '92 we don't get more members, I'll have to give up the post," he said.

"We'll have to disband. I hate to see that happen and I know a lot of other members feel the same way, but there aren't enough willing to take the responsibility of keeping it going," Mr. Johnson said.

Proposed zoning bylaw change: Artisans would be able to sell from their homes

By Lisa Boudreau

Residents who want to hold craft and similar sales out of their homes won't have to skirt Andover's zoning bylaw and risk fines anymore if an amendment passes at Special Town Meeting Monday, Sept. 30. Under current zoning laws, violators could be fined $100 for each day of a sale.

Andover Cottage Industries, a group of local crafters and antiques merchants who for years held a house-to-house Christmas sale, was shut down last December by the town because the house-to-house sale was in violation of the zoning bylaw.

ACI began about eight years ago under the name Home Works. Local crafters included basket makers, quilters, dried flower arrangers and other artisans, said member Dorothy Dearborn, 175 Summer St.

A public hearing on the proposed zoning amendment, Article 5 at Special Town Meeting, will be held Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in town offices on Bart-

Unpaid taxes cost Andover $750,000

By Don Staruk

Only one of approximately 30 property owners threatened with the taking of their property for delinquent taxes paid his bill this week, making only a small dent in the $750,000 owed to the town.

The treasurer's office last week published in the Townsmen a list of property owners who owe three years of taxes to the town, with a warning that the properties would be taken next Friday, Sept. 27, if the taxes remain unpaid.

But Mike Muise, treasurer, said he expects some of the debt will be paid by the delinquents before the deadline, and the bulk of it to follow soon after.

"I would say 15 or 20 of them would get paid off within three months after the advertisement," Mr. Muise said last week.

Lilia Kandel, of Essex Street, says it's difficult to be single in Andover. This is a community of couples, she says. But still, she socializes with her many married friends.

Correction for singles story

Due to a reporting error, there was an incorrect statement in last week's singles profile of Donna Ying.

Ms. Ying did not attend Brooks School in North Andover.

She attended Brooks Junior College in Boston, an institution she describes as a "finishing school" that no longer exists. It was on Marlboro Street.

At one time, it also was called the Mary Brooks School.

we were able to go I had to leave all of my belongings and money behind," she said.

"The Russian government did not allow us to exchange our money. Each person received only the equivalent of $126. It is really ridiculous," Ms. Kandel said.

Ms. Kandel and her 20-year-old daughter, Irena, were sponsored by the Jewish Family Service and they arrived in Andover after a few months in Austria and Italy. (Ms. Kandel was divorced before she left Moldavia, after 20 years of marriage.) Her daughter is now a student at Brandeis University in Waltham.

"I got invited to come to Andover by the Jewish Family Service. They made it possible to live while I looked for a job. They paid for my rent and everything for one month," she said.

Now she teaches piano and, as she has for the past 20 years, uses her training in child psychology to motivate her students.

Ms. Kandel says it is very difficult to be single in Andover. Most of her friends are married and though she socializes with them often, she said most activities in town are geared toward married people and families.

"This town is for married people," she said.

"All of my friends are married. We go out often, but mostly we stay in Andover."

She does enjoy going into Boston for cultural events such as the symphony, but mostly she travels to the city during the day.

"I don't know Boston that well yet and it can be dangerous to go in at night," she said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Rep. Coon to hold office hours

Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, will hold office hours at the South Lawrence Branch Library today, Thursday, Sept. 19, from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

He will be at Memorial Hall Library Thursday, Sept. 26, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

These office hours offer the opportunity for citizens to talk about their concerns with state government.

John Harris swears in Judge McKenna

Andover's John Harris, fifth district governor's councilor, reviving a little-known duty of his position, swore in John McKenna as an administrative judge on the Industrial Accidents Board earlier this month.

Mr. Harris, of 31 Lincoln Circle, who was one of two Republicans voted to the eight-member council last November, said administering the oath of office was just one positive thing the council can do.

"It's part of one of my campaign promises to have the council start doing positive things rather than negative things," Mr. Harris said this week.

Some legislators wanted to disband the council last year when it received a lot of negative publicity.

Mr. McKenna is a former law partner of William Melahn of Andover, a GOP State Committee member. The position on the Industrial Board pays $64,000 a year.

The council also played a part in another decision this month that will save the state $82,000 to $83,000 a year, according to Mr. Harris.

The council pushed the administration to make partial payment on a bill for the New Braintree prison site in order to stop interest from accruing. The cost of the site is being disputed by the state.

The administration in early September paid $3.6 million plus $800,000 in interest as part of a deal to stop the interest from accruing until a court settles the matter. It could take years for the settlement and Mr. Harris said the partial payments were well worth it.

"It was well worthwhile. We will probably have saved all the operational costs of the Governor's Council for a year," he said.

Rep. Coon works on theft bill

Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, wants to aid police efforts to crack down on auto theft. He and Rep. Joe

Hermann of North Andover are pushing a bill to abolish the charge of "unauthorized use of a motor vehicle."

"In my book, when someone takes your car without permission, that's theft," Rep. Coon said.

He explained that thieves are frequently convicted of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a lesser charge than motor vehicle theft.

"We can't say we're cracking down on car theft if the thieves are walking out of court with a $50 fine," Rep. Coon said, citing the usual sentence attached to unauthorized use. "Traffic citations can cost more than that."

Under the proposed change, car thieves will be subject to a minimum of 30 days of community service and as much as $15,000 in fines and 15 years imprisonment.

The bill was sent to a study committee by the Committee on Criminal Justice earlier this year. Reps. Coon and Hermann plan to meet with Rep. James Brett, chairman of that committee, to ask for the bill's release to the full House of Representatives for debate.

Individuals nominated should work in a paid or volunteer capacity on behalf of elders. They also should have made a measurable contribution that has improved the quality of life for elders in his/her community or the Merrimack Valley.

Applications may be obtained by calling Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley at 1-800-892-0890.

The deadline for submitting nominations is Oct. 10.

Refreshments will be served after the hike, and some shuttle service back to the starting point will be available.

For more information, call Elizabeth Tentarelli at 470-2520 or the Bay Circuit Alliance at 470-1982.

Environmental group, GLEN, meets tonight

The Greater Lawrence Environmental Network, GLEN, will hold its fall meeting tonight, Thursday, at 7 at the Robert E. McQuade Water Treatment Plant on Lowell street.

The meeting is open to anyone who wishes to hear about local environmental activities and projects or has an issue or a concern to discuss.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

ADULT SCOLIOSIS

Scoliosis is a condition characterized by an abnormal curvature of the spine, which may conform to an S-pattern when viewed from behind. This problem is commonly associated with young girls who experience uneven growth during the years just before adolescence. However, adult scoliosis is estimated to occur in ten percent of adults over the age of 50. A contributing cause of this condition is degeneration of the discs. Adults with this problem often experience pain, unlike young scoliosis patients who do so only rarely. Usually, the pain centers in the back. If the curvature causes pinching of the nerves in the area of the ribs, pain may occur in the upper abdomen. Puzzling referred pain, (in the gallbladder, for instance) is also a possibility. In such cases, chiropractic may be useful in making a correct diagnosis, as well as providing useful treatment.

Many problems can result from disturbed conditions in the spinal column. Children especially should be checked for this condition to prevent further problems. Call us for an evaluation at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042. We accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central St.

P.S. An excess weight condition can only worsen the problem of adult scoliosis.

RECYCLING

By Virginia Cole

The July recycling figures aren't good: 212 tons recycled, when June, which I thought was bad, had 214 tons.

Strangely, paper went up a bit and glass went down.

The official figures gave us more homes in July, 17,655, and only 15,910 in June.

Must have been a lot of building or moving or maybe just more people recycling. But the participation was only 10,765, or 61 percent. We must do better than that.

Composting leaves

Think about composting leaves and garden wastes this fall. Your own compost pile is the easiest on you and the cheapest. We haven't heard the official dates for opening the compost site in West Andover but will keep you posted.

Save batteries

We also haven't forgotten the pilot program for battery recycling. Hope you are saving yours and we will have information on this soon - maybe next week.

Plastics and aluminum

The plastic and aluminum collection at West Middle School parking lot is Saturday, Sept.

21, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Plastic jugs and containers with a 1 or a 2 stamped on the bottom can be left there. All aluminum can be left too:

pots and pans, TV dinner trays, cans, storm windows, old lawn chairs.

Don't bring glass; that goes in your blue bin - all colors, it is not necessary to separate.

We have made a little progress.

BUSINESS

Financial investment expert: Economy is recovering

Carter Randall, financial expert, spoke at Andover Country Club last week and advised people to maintain a long-term investment plan.

Carter Randall, host and frequent guest panelist on PBS's "Wall Street Week with Louis Rukeyser," spoke at the Andover Country Club at two seminar sessions last week. The event was sponsored by Edgewood life-care retirement community, which is being developed in North Andover by Life Care Services Corporation, headquartered in Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Randall talked about investing in today's market.

It's only 20 months into the '90s decade and already two events have shaken the world, he said - the Persian Gulf crisis and now the failed coup and subsequent reforms in the Soviet Union. The events have shaken the global financial markets and created nervousness among investors, he said.

What should the investor do?

Proceed with caution and maintain a long-term financial plan, he said.

"Rapid world developments tend to cause a reactionary approach among investors," Mr. Randall said. "Don't react to these events, which have a sudden impact on the market. I insist investors employ a long-term approach and certainly not a short-term view for their investments."

Uncertainty about the Soviet Union's direction will keep the market vulnerable, he said. But other factors, worldly and domestic, such as the Tokyo securities scandal, the S & L shakeout and the upheavals in the insurance industry, also can be factored into the equation for investing in the 1990s.

Mr. Randall believes that with stable interest rates and inflation under control, the economy will begin to gain some momentum.

"A key factor will be to watch government policy for spending and taxation. That will set the stage," Mr. Randall predicted.

Some factors he said indicate economic recovery are:

- The consumer confidence index has leveled out in the upper 70s, up significantly from January;
- Unemployment figures for July were reported at 408,000, down considerably from numbers that had edged over 500,000 in March;
- Home sales, which bottomed out in January below three million, have crept toward the four-million mark;
- 1991 is an election year, which traditionally means a boost for the economy.

For the coming months, Mr. Randall predicts recovery.

"While it might seem like a weak recovery at best right now, all of these factors are indications that this is a recovery," he said.

"It will probably stay somewhat flat for the remainder of the year, but by 1992 the economy should be back on its feet and confidence of consumers and investors restored."

Lawrence General Auxiliary makes history with $500K pledge

The Lawrence General Hospital Auxiliary has announced a $500,000 pledge to the hospital, the largest pledge of its kind to be made in the history of the Auxiliary.

"This pledge, which will be made incrementally over a period of several years, will be used primarily for renovations in the maternity area," explained Joseph McManus, president and CEO of the hospital.

In presenting the pledge, Joan Lewis, an Andover resident and president of the auxiliary, said that it serves as a significant example of the role she believes the auxiliary should play in the hospital's program enhancement efforts. Just recently, she pointed out, the auxiliary displayed its support of the hospital's maternal/infant program with the purchase of fetal ultrasound monitoring equipment.

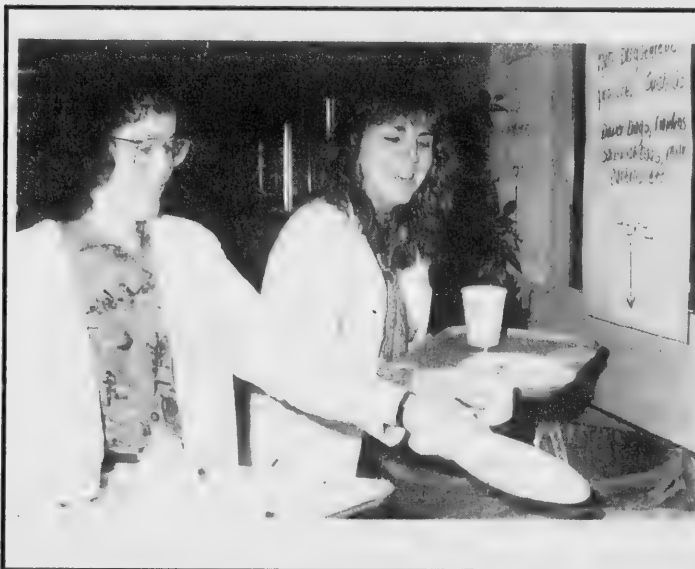

"These are tough economic times and that makes our support even more important. The auxiliary is very committed to the hospital and very excited about the pledge. Though we haven't put a time limit on raising these funds, in our hearts we're hoping to meet our goal before too long," she added.

In their effort to raise this money, the auxiliary's members are planning a major family-oriented fundraiser for the spring of 1992. They continue to raise funds by operating the Auxiliary Thrift Shop, across the street from the hospital, and the Hospitality Shop, inside the hospital. Other events and activities, such as the dance scheduled for Friday, May 31, at Old Andover Town Hall, will help the group reach its goal.

"Our appreciation and gratitude toward the Auxiliary on the magnitude of this pledge cannot be expressed adequately in words," said Mr. McManus.

"Over the years the Auxiliary has provided us constant support with program funding. This most recent commitment, however, goes far beyond that realm and will definitely be instrumental in exciting changes now underway for the maternal/infant program at Lawrence General Hospital."

Andover resident Janet Sheehan, registered nurse, and Medford resident Julie Sullivan, also an RN, both nurses in Lawrence General Hospital's Work Health Program, separate their trash in support of the hospital's recycling efforts, which have saved more than 262 trees to date.

SCHOOLS

School adds development director

New staff joins Pike

Sharon Carlisle has been named Pike School's first full-time director of development.

She comes to Pike from Harcum Junior College in Bryn Mawr, Pa., where she was development associate and assistant to the president.

Ms. Carlisle has a bachelor of arts degree from William Smith College in Geneva, N.Y., and master of arts from Villanova University in Villanova, Pa.

She has taken over Pike's limited but well-established development program, according to Pike School Headmaster David A. Frothingham. Ms. Carlisle will expand it while creating a long-term plan for broad-based financial support for the school, he said.

Other new faculty faces at Pike include that of Edward Kloman, who is teaching language arts to fourth- and fifth-graders.

Mr. Kloman is also working with the middle school computer program and coaching in the upper school.

A graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., he spent an additional two years studying at Princeton University in Princeton, N.J., and a year in the master of liberal studies program at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn.

Mr. Kloman directed the Swiss Challenge sailing program, served as coach to the U.S. Junior men's rowing team and coached rowing at Princeton and Harvard universities. He comes to Pike after a year as middle school intern at Beaver Country Day School.

Margaret O'Brien is teaching in Pike's kindergarten program. A cum laude graduate of Babson College, Mrs. O'Brien worked in industry before earning her MA.

in early childhood education from Wheelock College in Boston. She has come to Pike from the Newton school system.

Audrey Palmieri has rejoined the Pike faculty. She taught in the Winchester and Andover school systems before coming to Pike in 1981. A graduate of Simmons College in Boston, Mrs. Palmieri interrupted her teaching career in 1984 to raise her children. She has returned to Pike to teach first grade.

Cynthia Smith is one of Pike's two prekindergarten teachers. After graduating from Dartmouth College in Hanover, N.H., she worked in industry for a year before earning her master of science in elementary school education at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

Ms. Smith has worked at the Episcopal School in New York City and did her student teaching at Lake Forest Country Day School in Lake Forest, Ill.

Pike is an independent coed day school located on Sunset Rock Road and enrolls students in prekindergarten through ninth grade.

Classes began at the Pike School Wednesday, Sept. 11, for 398 students from 34 communities in the Greater Merrimack Valley.

This year's enrollment is larger and geographical representation greater than last year's, Mr. Frothingham said.

Andover is represented by 174 students; 95 are from North Andover. There are also 13 students from Windham, N.H., 11 from Methuen and 10 each from Lawrence, Haverhill and Reading.

Students have enrolled from 25 towns in Massachusetts and nine in New Hampshire.

Merrimack hosts college fair

A college fair for high school students and their parents, teachers and guidance counselors will be held at Merrimack College next week.

More than 260 colleges and universities will be represented at the two-day fair Monday, Sept. 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. and Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 9 a.m. to noon.

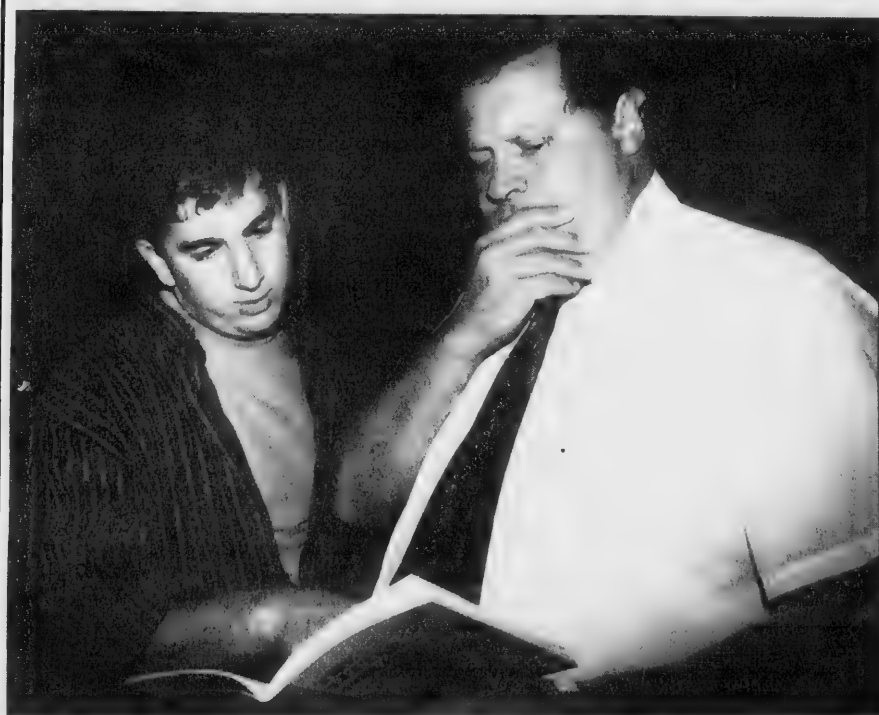

The event, sponsored by the New England Association of College Admissions Counselors, is the largest such fair in New England.

In addition to representatives and exhibits of participating colleges and universities from across the country, this year's fair will include information about financial aid.

Merrimack College is located in North Andover at the junction of routes 114 and 125.

For more information, call Merrimack's admissions office at 837-5100.

Adam Cohen, left, stage manager for Andover High's production of The Little Foxes, discusses a scene with director Bob Lague during last week's auditions for the Lillian Hellman play. The curtain will open Nov. 15, 16, 23 and 24 on the Collins Center stage.

AHS tackles heavy drama

Forty Andover High School students tried out for 10 parts in the school's upcoming production of The Little Foxes, Lillian Hellman's tale of a nasty Southern family during the turn of the century.

Marcus DeLoach auditions for The Little Foxes. The Andover High senior got the part of Horace Giddens.

"They are mean and manipulating," explained Bob Lague, who's directing the show. "There are a couple of heroes, like Horace, but he dies in the middle of the third act."

Movie fans will remember the big-screen version of Ms. Hellman's play with Bette Davis in the lead role.

"It's a very heavy drama, but that's part of the education process," said Mr. Lague, who added that he tries to alternate between comedy and tragedy.

Last year, Andover High students performed the comedy You Can't Take It with You. Two years ago, they tackled Arthur Miller's tense drama on the Salem witchcraft trials, The Crucible, which is not only very long, but had the young actors using archaic English.

The Little Foxes is "applicable to this age level. But it takes some really good acting, and I've got the guns," the director said.

Mr. Lague has no reason to worry. All of the students he picked for Little Foxes have performed in at least one school show, and some of them have participated in productions by local groups, such as Merrimack Junior Theatre and Andover Theatre Company.

"It's a veteran cast," said Mr. Lague, who double cast some of the parts. "There are some really good kids in there who have done so much."

More students taking fewer courses at NECC

Applications to Northern Essex Community College are up 11.4 percent, and total enrollments are up 9.2 percent over last year, according to figures released recently by the college.

The college received 4,560 applications for this fall semester as compared to 4,093 last year. Initial fall enrollment has increased from 8,465 in 1990 to 9,244.

Students are continuing to register for courses beginning throughout the semester, and it is anticipated that total enrollment for the fall semester will exceed 10,000. The apparent trend is for larger numbers of students to take fewer courses.

"The success of our new campus in Lawrence has been remarkable," said John R. Dimitry, president of the college. "Over 800 students already have registered for the credit and non-credit courses offered in Lawrence, which is far more than we had expected for the first semester in our new building."

According to Dean of Student Affairs Norman Landry, it is true that increases in tuition and fees have occurred at Northern Essex, but the college remains the third lowest cost of 29 public colleges and universities in Massachusetts.

"However, it is clear that the greater financial burden being borne by community college students is having an effect," says Mr. Landry. "Large numbers of working-class students are being priced out of community colleges with no place to go in the current economic climate. We were their best and only opportunity."

Mr. Dimitry also attributed the increased enrollments to the economy.

"As the economic picture changes, more and more people want high-quality affordable education close to home. They are taking a look at Northern Essex," he said.

Middlesex helps students make career decisions

Middlesex Community College offers two programs designed to assist adults with career choice and direction. Participants can now explore career interests through a personalized testing and counseling program at the college, according to the director of the new programs.

"In this difficult employment market it is even more important for individuals to assess themselves and consider how their skills will transfer to several different careers," reports Esther Hochman, a career counselor at Middlesex.

Ms. Hochman administers the individualized career planning and testing program and will assist students in determining an appropriate testing program.

The Quest program includes two hours of career counseling as well as administration and interpretation of the Harrington O'Shea Decision Making Inventory.

This vocational interest inventory is designed to survey interests, values, abilities and career plans in order to make educational and/or career choices, Ms. Hochman said.

CAPS, the California Aptitude Preference Survey, is a series of aptitude tests designed to help identify strengths and weaknesses. The test results are correlated to related career fields and can assist in the selection of school courses and training programs.

For more information on the counseling program, call Ms. Hochman at 937-5454, Ext. 3240.

YMCAs have child-care openings

Openings for the after-school child-care program at the Andover/North Andover branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA are still available for children from Andover and North Andover public schools.

Bus transportation and care is provided Monday through Friday at the Haverhill Street and Faith Lutheran sites until 6 p.m. (Openings are only available Tuesday through Friday at the Haverhill Street site.)

Once at the Y program site, children have opportunities for recreational and educational activities that provide the security and safety of a home-like setting, said Marisa Mersereau, the Y's senior program director.

Outdoor play, crafts, cooking, games, nature exploration and free time are all available under the supervision of staff members, Ms. Mersereau said. Care is also available on school days off and holidays.

These holiday-care days are available for children other than those in the after-school program, and parents are encouraged to sign up soon as the spots fill up very quickly. Columbus Day, Monday, Oct. 14, is the next one coming up.

Call the local YMCA at 685-3541 for more information on the child-care programs.

The Lawrence branch of the Y is also accepting registrations for its school-age child-care program at the Lawrence facility, 40 Lawrence St.

The program operates Monday through Friday from 1:45 to 6 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on all early-release days. The program is also open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. during all school vacations, most holidays and snow days. Transportation is provided from most schools.

The supervised activities include arts and crafts, swimming, gym, cooking and homework assistance, as well as field trips. Afternoon snacks are provided.

Why you should consider a Home Equity Loan instead of a Home Equity Line.

The Difference.

First off, we're not knocking Home Equity Credit Lines. For many people, they're definitely the way to go. Other folks, however, may want to check into Home Equity Loans. The difference is simple. With an approved Home Equity Loan, you borrow a specific amount for a specific period... usually up to 10 years. You can also lock into a fixed interest rate. Right now we're offering a special introductory rate for the first 6 months and a really great fixed rate for the remainder of your loan.

With an approved Home Equity Line, your money is available when you want it. Just write a check for the amount you want. Your monthly payments may differ because you only pay a percentage of the amount drawn on your Line. Upon maturity, you may still have a balance outstanding.

*EXAMPLE LOAN: If you borrow $15,000 for 60 months, the first 6 monthly payments at 8.50% APR are $307.75; followed by 54 monthly payments at 10.50% APR are $321.14; combined 10.10% APR; finance charge $1,188.06; total payments $19,188.06.

The Advantages Of A Home Equity Loan.

With a Home Equity Loan, you get a fixed rate for a fixed term. That makes it easy to budget, because you'll always know what your monthly payment will be... and you'll know exactly when the loan will be paid off. In many cases, your Home Equity Loan interest is 100% tax deductible.

Think Of The Uses.

Pay off your existing credit line from another bank... education for your children... home improvements... a new car... debt consolidation (the interest on a Home Equity Loan is considerably lower than credit cards or personal loans)... a vacation... Whatever the reason you have for borrowing, a Lawrence Savings Bank Home Equity Loan may be the way to go.

PARENTS' NIGHTS

Shawsheen

Students and teachers are looking forward to the first open house of the year at Shawsheen's developmental primary school.

The open house/curriculum night will be held Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m. Parents will be introduced to the teaching staff, who will explain the philosophy and ideas behind developmental and integrated primary education.

The parents will then have an opportunity to spend time in the classroom where the teachers will introduce them to their children's routines, materials and learning centers. Teachers will answer questions about the curriculum.

Coffee and refreshments will be offered after classroom visits.

Many plans are in the works for Andover's developmental primary school. A family harvest picnic is being organized for a Saturday in October, and a book fair is planned for November.

The kindergartners are spending a lot of time getting to know one another and getting used to the weekly routine and school specialists, said Carol Buchanan and Theresa Murphy, who run the daily operations of the Shawsheen school.

Bancroft

Bancroft Elementary School will serve coffee to all parents whose children are new to the school Friday, Sept. 20, at 9:30 a.m.

Parents can visit their children's loft and meet the teachers Thursday, Sept. 26, during Bancroft's "back-to-school night." Parents of kindergartners and students in lofts one and two are scheduled for 6:15 to 7:15 p.m.; parents of kids in lofts three through five, between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Voter registration will take place, and the school's Parent-Teacher Organization will set up tables to accept tax-deductible contributions.

Doherty

The students and faculty of Doherty Middle School will hold their annual "back-to-school night" for parents Wednesday, Oct. 2, beginning promptly at 7 p.m.

Parents will follow a typical day's schedule on an abbreviated basis. The purpose of the program is for parents to meet their son's or daughter's teachers and hear a brief description of the programs.

PAC hosts special-ed director

Mary French, Andover's special education director, will address the 766 Parent Advisory Council for children with special needs Wednesday, Sept. 25, in the media center of the school administration building.

The PAC meets for coffee, conversation and networking at 7 p.m.; the meeting begins at 7:30.

Ms. French was a learning disability teacher for 20 years. She returned to grad school after her child was diagnosed at Children's Hospital in Boston.

She was LD program head for five years before becoming special ed director five years ago.

The PAC will meet the third Wednesday of each month.

A child's battle with anorexia

Andover resident John Gould will open the autumn "Tea at Three" series at Andover Books and Prints with a reading from his latest work in progress. In the manuscript, tentatively titled The Withering Child, the author relates his family's battle with a young son's anorexia nervosa and with the English national health system.

Mr. Gould will be at Andover Books and Prints Sunday, Sept. 22, at 3 p.m.

Originally from Maine, he has published one novel, The Greenleaf Fires (1978), and two "bachelor" cookbooks, The Great Little Hot Dog Cookbook (1973) and The Brown Bag Cookbook (1974). Mr. Gould is also an amateur botanist and has written articles on the subject. For the past nine years, he has taught English at Phillips Academy.

Mr. Gould's wife, Jane, is a priest at Grace Episcopal Church in Lawrence, and the couple has two boys, Gardner, 6, and Sam, 2.

Last October, during his sabbatical, Mr. Gould and his family set up housekeeping in England — he, to visit locales central to the lives and works of the Brontës, Jane Austen and other noted literary figures, and Rev. Gould to work with the Church of England.

The relocation proved extremely traumatic for Gardner, then 5. School, where he was placed in a mixed-grade classroom, was a particular trial.

"Most of the kids in his class had had school already," says Mr. Gould. "They knew their ABCs, and some of them knew some reading. He was pretty lost."

The boy cried as he was brought to school. He became lethargic and passive and stopped eating.

As Gardner grew weak and sickly, the Goulds sought help from the country's national health system. They met with confusion, bureaucracy and waiting lists. The boy's health deteriorated drastically; eventually, he lost one-third of his body weight.

Even now, Mr. Gould finds the memories of Gardner's illness chilling. He recalls, at one point, renting a tape of E.T. the Extraterrestrial and watching as Gardner recited the phrase "E.T. phone home" with the film's protagonist.

"He seemed to think of himself as an alien who was withering," he says. "It was scary."

Less than three months after they had set foot on English soil, the Goulds decided they had to leave for Gardner's sake. Once back in Andover, placed in kindergarten at Shawshen School, the boy recovered almost immediately. He has regained his health completely, says his father. "In fact, we think he might be a little chubby."

After the crisis passed, Mr. Gould sat down to pen a short story about the experience.

Gymnastics show benefits LGH

Brandy Johnson, one of the most powerful women tumblers in the world, will star in Go for the Gold, Tim Daggett's Gymnastics Spectacular Saturday, Sept. 21, at Merrimack College in North Andover.

Ms. Johnson, who finished highest for any American gymnast in the 1988 Olympics, will perform with other past, present and future Olympic stars, such as reigning Olympic champion Vladimir Artemov.

Others include Kim Kelly, 1991 U.S. Gymnastics Federation Women's Athlete of the Year and a contender for the 1992 Olympics; 1984 Olympian Tong Fei; and 1988 Olympian Vladimir Novikov.

Dominique Dawes, a gymnast who has bested Kim Zmeskal, one of America's leading hopes for the 1992 Olympics, will share the spotlight along with Jeff Hittner, Siri Larsen and Amy Murakami, three of Massachusetts' top gymnasts.

Scott Keswick, a three-time still-rings champion, will also demonstrate the prowess that gave him the moniker "King of the Rings."

Mr. Keswick has three back-to-back U.S. championships to back up that claim. When he captured that title again this year, he became the first American to win three in a row.

As the 1989 World Championship silver medalist, Ms. Johnson will highlight this array of talent along with Olympic gold medalist Tim Daggett.

The 18-year-old Johnson competed in the 1986 and '87 Olympics and finished 10th in the all-around in the 1988 Olympics in Seoul. That same year she was the U.S.A. vs. U.S.S.R. champion, the U.S.A. Senior National champion, American Cup champion and U.S. Challenge champion.

Ms. Johnson finished fifth all-around in the 1990 World Cup and first in the vault in the 1991 World Professional gymnastics championships.

Mr. Daggett said this kind of well-rounded world-class gymnastics entertainment has not been presented in New England before.

Go for the Gold is presented by the Lawrence General Hospital Foundation.

Tickets cost $15 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Sponsor and patron tickets, which include a family buffet dinner and an opportunity to meet the gymnasts, are also available.

Tickets may be purchased by calling the Lawrence General Hospital Foundation office at 683-0006, Ext. 2020, or TicketPro at (800) 828-7080.

All proceeds will benefit the hospital.

Local gymnasts strut their stuff

Four Andover youngsters will share the spotlight with some of the world's best gymnasts in Lawrence General Hospital's Go for the Gold, Tim Daggett's Gymnastics Spectacular Saturday, Sept. 21, at 5 p.m. at Merrimack College in North Andover.

Youngsters from the Walker Gymnastics Club in Lowell, Port Gymnastics in Plaistow, N.H., and Merrimack Valley Gymnastics Club in Methuen will perform with such gymnasts as 1984 Olympic gold medalist Tim Daggett, world championship silver medalist Brandy Johnson and reigning Olympic champion Vladimir Artemov.

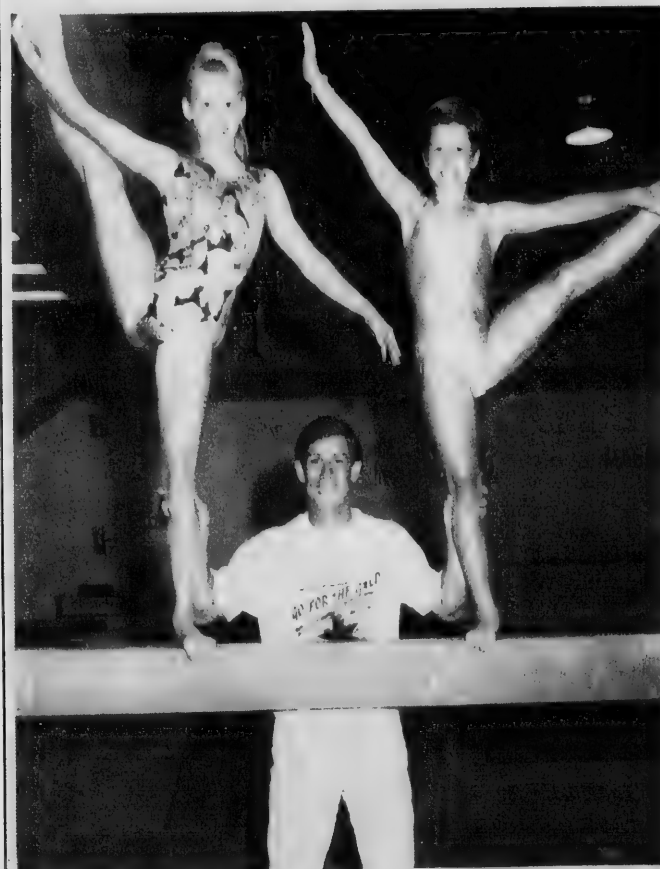

Included in the performance are 10-year-olds Tara Cullen from Walker Gymnastics and Sara LeClerc, a level-seven gymnast from Port Gymnastics.

Nine-year-old Kristen Kearins and 10-year-old Katie Upton from Merrimack Valley Gymnastics will also perform. Both girls are level-five gymnasts and have been practicing the sport for three years.

Mr. Daggett said the show will feature choreographed routines and special lighting rather than a gymnastics competition. He added that, with the 1992 Olympics less than a year away, area residents will have a first-hand opportunity to see some of the stars they'll hear about next summer when the games begin in Barcelona, Spain.

"I feel it's extremely important for these young gymnasts to be involved in this kind of show," he said. "These kids need to know that these world-class gymnasts are human, that they have had failures too, that they've had problems. The youngsters need to learn they just can't give up. Gymnastics is my passion and I want to use the knowledge I've cultivated all these years to help the next generation of gymnasts."

Author John Gould, pictured with his younger son, Sam, will read from his work in progress, the story of his other son's struggle with anorexia.

Resident gives reading from book

There was too much to write; the narrative became a book, which he has sent to his agent.

"I wouldn't say this is the story of an abnormal child," Mr. Gould says of his finished work. "You don't hear very much about infant anorexia, but it exists." He hopes that his reading at the bookstore's tea will spark discussion. "I would be very interested in response," he says.

Andover Books and Prints is located at 68 Park St. "Tea at Three" runs from 3 to 4 p.m. Sundays in the shop or, weather permitting, in the garden. The program features a half-hour presentation by the week's guest, followed by tea and discussion.

Folk duo performs at Red Barn

Stawn Barber and Carolyn Cardella will perform in concert Saturday, Sept. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Red Barn in North Andover's Olde Center. The pair will sing original music and pop/folk cover tunes.

Both Ms. Barber and Ms. Cardella hold bachelor's degrees in music from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where they began their coffeehouse career.

They also have master's degrees in music from the Boston Conservatory.

They're classically trained singers, but they'll be singing folk music Saturday night their own and covers of tunes by the Indigo Girls, Joan Baez and the Roches.

"Some people call this the New Age," Ms. Barber said. "Maybe I don't like that term, but people are focusing a whole lot more on inner peace, and folk music reflects that."

The suggested donation for the pair's show is $10, but all donations will be accepted. They will use some of the money to make a demo tape, and 10 percent of the proceeds will be donated to the Gift of the Heart Seminar, an insight seminar for people with life-challenging illness and their families.

Refreshments will be provided by Cowpasture Productions, and all proceeds from them will go to support the Red Barn Coffeehouse.

For more information, call 688-8120.

Stawn Barber and Carolyn Cardella will sing some of their original compositions at the Red Barn in North Andover's Olde Center Saturday at 7 p.m.

Armenian art is lecture topic

"Lost Treasure: The Story of Armenian Art" will kick off a three-part mini-lecture series on Armenian culture at Merrimack College.

The color slide presentation and commentary will be given by Dr. Lucy Der Manuelian Sunday, Sept. 22, at 3 p.m. at the college's library, Route 114 in North Andover.

Dr. Der Manuelian, a professor of Armenian art and architecture at Tufts University in Medford, will talk about the castles and churches perched on the mountain tops of historic Armenia.

She will also describe the carved images and colored illustrated manuscripts created throughout the centuries.

"These monuments are among the most impressive in the history of art," Dr. Der Manuelian said. "Armenia's castles, churches, sculpture and manuscripts document the country's struggle to maintain her own identity and express the country's political and religious ideology."

Dr. Der Manuelian was appointed to the Arthur H. Dadian and Ara Oztemel Chair of Armenian Art and Architectural History at Tufts in 1989.

Her lecture is sponsored by the Armenian National Committee and is free of charge.

Theologian gives lecture tonight

The Rev. David Hollenbach, S.J., will speak on "Solidarity and the Common Good" at Merrimack College Thursday, Sept. 19.

The lecture will be held at 8 p.m. in Merrimack's library auditorium, which is wheelchair accessible.

Father Hollenbach, a nationally known theologian, has published extensively on topics concerning theological foundations of Christian ethics, theories of justice, economic ethics, the ethics of war and peace, and religion and politics.

Formerly a member of the faculty at Weston School of Theology in Cambridge, Father Hollenbach was recently appointed to the John and Margaret Flatley Chair of Catholic Theology at Boston College. He was also a major consultant and writer for the pastoral letter from the American Catholic Bishops titled "Economic Justice for All: Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy."

The lecture, which is free and open to the public, is the first in this fall's Campus Ministry Lecture Series at Merrimack. For additional information, call the college's Campus Ministry Center at 837-5450.

Resident on Hadassah board

Ann Kazer of Andover was elected to the national board of Hadassah at the 77th annual convention in Jerusalem this summer.

Mrs. Kazer is the former president of the Greater Lowell chapter of Hadassah and its northern New England region.

She is president of the board of the Jewish Family Services of Merrimack Valley and former chairwoman of Federation's Operation Exodus. She is co-chairwoman of the Greater Boston Parents Committee of Brandeis University.

Mrs. Kazer and her husband, Herbert, president of a wholesale electrical supply company, are members of Temple Emanuel.

Hadassah's convention featured ceremonies marking the 30th anniversary of the Medical Center at Eruin Karem; groundbreaking for the Children's Pavilion; dedication of Ramat Hadassah, a village for olim on the hospital grounds; presentation of the Henrietta Szold Award to Zubin Mehta, director of the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra; presentation of the Shazar Prize to Hadassah; and appearances by Israel's top political figures.

More than 1,800 delegates attended from the United States. The focus at the convention, the largest tourist event since the end of the Gulf War, was on Hadassah's role in absorbing and aiding the cultural transition of the recent waves of immigrants from the U.S.S.R. and Ethiopia.

Hadassah is the largest Zionist organization in the world with 385,000 members in 1,500 chapters and groups in the United States. It supports health and educational projects in Israel, including the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center, the Career Counseling Institute and the Hadassah College of Technology in Jerusalem, and youth resettlement programs and the Jewish National Fund.

Through the Young Judea youth movement, Hadassah seeks to ensure a strong Zionist and Jewish commitment in American youth, a spokeswoman said.

The group also mobilizes support for its medical work in Israel through Hadassah-International, a network of friends of the Medical Center in Israel, Canada, Europe, South America, Mexico and Australia.

OBITUARIES

Dino Valz, former Townsmen editorial writer, dies at 87

By Lisa Boudreau

Dino Valz of 17 Stratford Road was an organized newspaperman who planned ahead and composed his own obituary 20 years before he died.

Mr. Valz, 87, died Saturday, Sept. 14, at his home. But 20 years ago, he provided the Andover Townsman, his former employer, with information for his obituary.

In a note dated March 11, 1971, he asked the Townsman to use the information "so that, when my time has run out, you won't have to trouble my bereaved wife for the sordid details."

His wife of 59 years, Erma (Trentini) Valz, died Sept. 3, 1990.

Mr. Valz wrote editorial columns for the Townsman and assisted with the Andover Press' yearbook publication business from 1925 to 1943.

On the occasion of Mr. Valz's 80th birthday, the Townsman published an article about his life and his love for his adopted "wonderful town."

He was born in the village of Piedicavallo, Piedmont, near the Italian Alps, on Dec. 31, 1903. He moved to Barre, Vt., with his family in 1905, and Mr. Valz was educated in Barre. During his senior year of high school in 1920 his father moved the family back to Italy.

Mr. Valz returned to Barre alone the following year and graduated from Spaulding High School there. During his lifetime, Mr. Valz returned to Italy nearly a dozen times.

He received a bachelor of arts degree from Harvard College in 1925. That same year he began work for the Andover Press. He held several positions at the printing company including salesman, college yearbook publisher and the Townsman's editorial writer.

"He was very interested in books," said Betty Cole of Farnsworth Road. Mrs. Cole's late husband, John N. Cole II, and his father and grandfather owned the Townsman for many years.

In 1943 Mr. Valz left the Townsman to work for the now defunct Sutherland Abbott advertising agency in Boston. He worked there until his retirement in 1971. While there, he received the first Boston Advertising Man of the Year Award in 1956.

Mr. Valz was also a former director of the Advertising Club of Greater Boston and former president of the New England Media Evaluators Association. He wrote many articles for professional publications.

He was also a lecturer on book and magazine publishing techniques at Simmons College in Boston from 1939 to 1969.

During World War II, Mr. Valz served with the Massachusetts State Guard.

He was a mountain-climbing enthusiast in his younger years. During his 1931 honeymoon to his native village in Italy, he and his wife climbed the Breithorn and Mount Rosa in the Italian Alps. He later scaled the Matterhorn in the French Alps.

His wide-ranging interests also included photography, mycology (the study of fungi) and travel.

Dino Valz

Mr. Valz and his wife owned a summer home on Lake Winnisquam in New Hampshire.

"We all considered the camp a little piece of heaven on earth," said Mr. Valz's grandson, Jeffrey Valz.

The family summered at the camp and lived in the Swiss chalet-style house Mr. Valz worked on building for nearly three decades.

"My grandfather was really a great guy. He was a self-made man," the younger Valz said. "He was extremely intelligent. He graduated from Harvard but never held that up to anyone. He didn't want people to know or prejudice him with that information."

Mr. Valz was an active member of the Andover Historical Society. He founded its newsletter in 1976 and edited it until last year.

He was very active in town politics, faithfully attending town meeting since he moved to Andover. He was also former president of the Andover Taxpayers Association and an officer at the former Andover Co-Op during some of its most successful years. Mr. Valz was a member of Christ Church.

Members of his family include his son and daughter-in-law, Donald J. and Patricia (Humphrey) Valz of Largo Vista, Texas; sister, Eva Martiner of Monte Sinaro, Italy; a grandson, Jeffrey Valz of Dallas, Texas; granddaughters, Leslie Carruth of Austin, Texas, and Kimberly Schawe of California; and five great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Thursday, Sept. 19, at 2 p.m. at Christ Church. Burial will be in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements are by Dewhirst and Conte Funeral Home, 17 Third St., North Andover.

TOWNTALK

By Lisa Boudreau

When Robin Hessman, of Andover, returns to her favorite Soviet city this spring for a planned semester abroad, the city will have a new name. Ms. Hessman, daughter of Erika Hessman, 12 Rolling Ridge Road, fell in love with Leningrad while she was a student there last spring as part of a study-abroad program during her first year at Brown University in Providence, R.I.

The centuries-old city of Leningrad has reverted back to its former name of St. Petersburg since sweeping democratic changes occurred in the Soviet Union late this summer.

"I love Leningrad. If I go back, and I hope to, I'll definitely go back to the Gornyi Institute in Leningrad," said the Brown University sophomore.

Ms. Hessman had two semesters of Russian at Phillips Academy, from which she graduated in 1990. She continued her Russian studies during an excellent summer session at Washington University in 1990.

"I was very disappointed with the Russian classes at Brown, so

Post 8 is losing its patriotic members

During the past five years, Andover Post 8 hasn't had enough members to carry flags in parades or fire gun salutes at other patriotic observances in town. Even though the post is in "excellent fiscal condition" and is able to sponsor youth activities such as Legion Youth Baseball, there aren't enough officers to coordinate other programs and there aren't enough members to support them, Mr. Johnson said.

According to town records, there are about 4,000 veterans living in Andover, said Mr. Johnson. About 20 years ago Post 8 had more than 340 members, he said. Now Post 8 has less than 40 contributing members. There are seven members who live out-of-state, eight who are veterans of World War I and about two dozen from World War II, the Korean and Vietnam wars put together, he said.

In an effort to publicize Post 8's need for more support, Mr. Johnson sent a letter to members notifying them of fall's first meeting, held last Tuesday night, Sept. 10, at the Senior Citizen Center. In the letter Mr. Johnson informed members Post 8 would be disbanded if more of them didn't come forward and if new post officers couldn't be found.

At last Tuesday night's meeting, Mr. Johnson hoped to name a new commander to take over the job, which he said he can no longer do. He also planned to name a vice commander, second vice commander, sergeant at arms, chaplain and a few other officers.

Only eight men showed up for the meeting, said Robert Bachmann, 18 Stratford Road, a veteran of the Korean War.

"I've been contributing to the Legion for years, but I haven't really been that active. When I read Mr. Johnson's letter I decided I'd better go to the meeting to see what I could do," he said.

"I thought I'd see a whole gang of people there Tuesday night. When I saw that only eight people showed up I realized what dire straights the post was in," Mr. Bachmann said.

Mr. Johnson said he plans to continue to hold regular meetings for Post 8 on the second Tuesday night of every month throughout the fall, winter and spring. He hopes by getting the word out some of the 4,000 veterans in town will come forward and help him save Andover's American Legion Post 8.

"I know there's got to be some veterans out there who would enjoy getting

I decided to apply for a study program in the Soviet Union for spring semester," she said.

Ms. Hessman was chosen for the spring 1991 Leningrad program after completing various essays and exams. She arrived in Leningrad last January and remained there until August. Her dorm overlooked the gulf of Finland and she was able to meet friends and participate in all aspects of Leningrad and university life.

Ms. Hessman enjoyed Leningrad so much she didn't want to leave once her classes ended in May. She looked for a summer job and was hired by Lenfilm, a Soviet film company. Her duties included dubbing English language for Russian films.

During her stay with Lenfilm, Ms. Hessman met and worked with American actor Robert England, who is best known for his role as Freddy Kruger in the series of Halloween horror films.

While she was in the Soviet Union, Ms. Hessman said she saw very little change in everyday life during the failed coup against the Mikhail Gorbachev government. But, some of her young Soviet friends were able to tell her about the difficult lives they had under the old regime.

A few of her male friends hated their forced military service so much they faked illnesses and one even planned a botched suicide attempt so he would be judged unfit for service by his superiors.

"I don't think any of us (Americans) could ever understand just how terrible it is for men in the Soviet service," Ms. Hessman said.

"We don't realize just how lucky we are," she said.

When Ms. Hessman told her Soviet friends she intended to return to Leningrad for another semester in the spring, they were surprised. Most Soviets wondered why an American woman would choose to live in the Soviet Union.

"They all thought I was crazy. They would ask me what Russia had over the United States. They all think the US has everything anybody could ever want," she said.

Ms. Hessman said the draw of Leningrad for her was not just one thing. She said the city itself was breathtakingly beautiful and the people she met were fascinating.

Ms. Hessman said she wants to return because she wasn't able to do everything she wanted in the short eight months she was there.

"Plus, too, I miss my friends very much."

the Arts, and an oral history of the town created by students in the public schools financed by the foundations.

The Stevens Foundations have been great supporters of Phillips and the former Abbot academies. Phillips is still their largest beneficiary.

Most programs supported by the foundations provide educational opportunities for young or underprivileged people. The opportunities have included sending groups on an Outward Bound experience, putting inner city youths in summer classes at Pike School, or providing job coaching through the Greater Lawrence Educational Collaborative.

The ABC House, home to the A Better Chance program, on Main Street, has for 24 years been bringing inner-city youths to Andover to attend the public high school. The Stevens Foundations provided funding to establish the program in 1967, bought the house and has continued to work with the group to keep the program going.

Sam Rogers, of 7 Abbot St., one of three trustees who oversee the two foundations, explained the philosophy of the foundations.

"The philosophy of both foundations is that the money that was made here should be reinvested in the community," Mr. Rogers said.

In the old days, the country squires, the large landowners, did a lot of things for the communities they lived in, and the people who worked for them.

"That was before we dignified it with philanthropy," Mr. Rogers said. "It was just the rich guy in town putting money back into the people that made it for him."

Technically, the foundations could write a check to the United Fund each year and that would satisfy the Internal Revenue Service, according to Mr. Rogers.

"But that's not it. It's taking the rifle shot and making the difference."

The ABC house was a rifle shot that provided an educational opportunity for the students, but also a cultural education for Andover, according to Mr. Rogers.

"When that started, there were no blacks in Andover," or at least in Andover High School, he said. "It improves the cultural life of Andover."

Established in 1943

The Nathaniel and Elizabeth P. Stevens Foundation was established in December of 1943 by Nathaniel Stevens of North Andover. He was president of M.T. Stevens & Sons, one of the earliest manufacturers of woolen cloth in the Merrimack Valley.

The company later changed its name to J.P. Stevens, which owned the Marland Mills, on Stevens Street, here in town.

In January of 1953, Abbot Stevens, Nathaniel's nephew and successor as president of company, established the Abbot and Dorothy H. Stevens Foundation. Both foundations were set up to have three trustees, no more, no less, and were originally funded with shares of the company stock.

When Mr. Stevens died, childless, he left the bulk of his estate to the foundation. His nephew did the same.

Although the two are separate foundations, they are handled as one and an applicant need only apply to one for consideration for grants from either fund.

At first the two foundations gave only a few, large grants. But during the last 20 years the trustees have diversified both the investment portfolios and their grant making policies.

Where philanthropy used to be a very private function, it has changed, according to Betty Beland, administrator of the Stevens Foundations since 1976.

During a dinner at the Lanam Club in 1983, for many local grant makers, the Stevens Foundation trustees first made public the amount and beneficiaries of their grants.

"I say it was a very historic moment in philanthropy," Ms. Beland said.

Since that meeting, a local donors collaborative has been formed to better organize and distribute grants so that programs are not over-funded and none are overlooked.

In the period from 1983-1987, the last summary period available, the Stevens Foundations made 530 grants for a total of $3.6 million. Grants ranged in size from $250 to $50,000.

In 38 years, the foundations have given about 200 grants just to organizations based in Andover totaling $4.3 million. Approximately $3.3 million went to Phillips and Abbot academies, and about $1 million to other programs.

The Stevens Foundations has offices at 1 Johnson St., N. Andover. The current trustees are Samuel Stevens Rogers, 7 Abbot St.; Phebe (Stevens) Miner, 42 School St.; Joshua L. Miner IV, of Boxford, Phebe's son; and Chris W. Rogers, of Boston, Sam's son.

Making the decisions

One of the most difficult parts of being a trustee for the foundation is deciding who gets money and who doesn't. The Stevens Foundations receive more than 300 proposals a year.

"Playing God is very difficult. Everybody needs money," Mr. Rogers said.

The foundations are not religiously oriented, but they have given to every church in town, according to Mr. Rogers.

"Nineteen eighty-nine was the year of the organ," he said. Four grants were given for organ restoration projects that year, two in Andover, one at South Church and the other for Old Town Hall.

The foundations avoid supporting day-to-day operational costs of agencies, and focus instead on special projects above and beyond normal operations.

"We are not the town. We can't take the place of public funds," Mr. Rogers said.

Instead, they provide the start-up funds or seed money or capital needed to get things started.

"They don't get money because they need it. They get money because they are doing something," Mr. Rogers said. "What we do is take rifle shots where they're needed."

The Andover Endowment for the Arts was another program supported because the trustees believed it was good for the town. Many other agencies or programs supported by the Stevens Foundations are not in Andover, and may not even be in the Merrimack Valley, but benefit Andover residents.

Whole seatings for shows at museums in Boston have been bought and given away in Andover and Greater Lawrence. Performances by the Boston Symphony or Boston Ballet have been brought to perform in area schools.

The Museum of American Textile History is in North Andover but represents the cultural history of the Greater Lowell and Lawrence areas. A book by Paul Hudon, an Andover resident, documenting the history of the textile industry in the Merrimack Valley, was published with money from the Stevens Foundations.

"Almost all of these are the kind of things the government can't deal with but really are necessary," Mr. Rogers said. "There's a community aspect to this."

Asked whether the Stevens Foundation would support something like Memorial Hall Library opening on Sundays, Mr. Rogers said that was a tough call.

While the library's Sunday hours enhance the quality of life in town, the library is a quasi-public institution supported by tax funds. The foundations might consider, for example, an addition to the library, according to Mr. Rogers.

"But the general operation is really not our function," he said.

While the foundations don't donate to annual fund drives, they might pay for the band to perform at a fund raising event. The foundations have funded feasibility studies for capital campaigns so applicants could see if they were in the ball park before committing a large amount of funds to a project.

"So, that's the kind of thing we do," Mr. Rogers said. "It's to join with somebody else doing something. Not just paying for it. It's working with the people and sometimes picking up the tab."

Not everything the foundation does, or becomes involved in, is a success. If something doesn't work, then let it die, Mr. Rogers said.

When youth hockey in Andover couldn't afford to rent the ice at the Cage at P.A. a couple years ago, the foundation paid the first year's rental. From then on, the dues of the participants and fees have paid for it, Mr. Rogers said.

Carjacker dumps dealer in Andover

By Don Staruk

A Lawrence car dealer took a prospective customer out for a test ride Tuesday afternoon but was left stranded on Interstate 93 near River Road after the man tricked him into getting out of the car, then fled with the vehicle.

John Santo, the dealer for Nassar Ford at 320 S. Broadway, said it is the only time in 17 years of selling cars that anything like this had ever happened to him.

"First time ever," Mr. Santo said. "It was an experience and a half."

The man came in to the car dealership around 2:30 p.m. He told Mr. Santos he was looking for a red, 1991 Ford Mustang GT, a high performance vehicle. The man said he had been at another dealership in Reading that didn't have the color he wanted, but did a computer check for him and said Nassar had the car.

"I took all his information," Mr. Santo said. "I spent close to 45 minutes with this gentleman."

The man said he was 18, had been in an accident with another car and had just received an insurance check for $16,000. Mr. Santos took the name and address and even let the young man use the phone to call his mother, who supposedly worked at the Ramada Inn on River Road and had to counter sign the insurance check.

The man then asked to go for a test ride so they could stop at the Ramada to get the check from his mother.

Mr. Santo said he offered to drive to the highway because the man appeared a bit nervous. They went down Route 28 to Route 495 south and onto Interstate 93 north before Mr. Santo pulled over about a quarter of a mile before the River Road exit to let the main drive.

When Mr. Santo got out to switch seats, the man locked the doors and drove off.

"He locked the door. He wouldn't even look at me," Mr. Santo said.

Mr. Santo described the man as "a clean cut kid, the preppy type," about six feet tall, with short, light brown hair and wearing shorts, a T-shirt and sneakers.

Mr. Santo was given a ride back to the dealership by a passerby. He said the number the man had called from the dealership, supposedly to talk to his mother, turned out to be disconnected.

Rifle shots in good places

The Stevens Foundation is one of the organizations that help make Andover special. And it is set up in such a clever way.

Its charge is not to support day-to-day operation costs of agencies, but to focus instead on special projects above and beyond normal operations.

For instance: Andover can thank the Stevens Foundation for its generous support of ABC, A Better Chance, which brings talented inner-city students to live here and attend Andover High School. Yes, it must be good to give those students a chance to study at a good school, but ABC students almost do more for this community than Andover does for them. They bring diversity and opportunity for us here to know someone we most likely would not meet otherwise.

Check the churches, their physical plants as well as programs. Not many operate without help from the Stevens Foundation. The philanthropic group takes kids to the ballet, brings musicians here, helps fund projects to keep our history alive. And so on.

"They don't get money because they need it," explained Samuel Stevens Rogers, one of three trustees of the Stevens Foundation. "They get money because they are doing something. What we do is take rifle shots where they're needed."

From 1983 to 1987, the Stevens Foundations made 530 grants for a total of $3.6 million. Grants ranged in size from $250 to $50,000.

So when you list off Andover's assets, count the Stevens Foundation among them. The foundation is part of what makes Andover special.

About 60 people, many of them from Andover, took a 6.2-mile hike through Lawrence Sunday afternoon to raise money for Habitat for Humanity. The hike took participants past the two completed Habitat housing projects that the group already built in Lawrence, as well as past the two-unit complex that's currently under construction. Many Andover churches have made Saturday commitments to Habitat to send volunteer labor certain weekends to work on the house. Habitat for Humanity builds housing around the world from volunteer labor and with donated materials, for those who otherwise could not afford decent housing. Those interested in volunteering can check their local church for further information or call Janet Surret, president of the area Habitat chapter, at 664-5311.

Private schools hustle for students

By Perry Colmore Catlin

Private schools aren't sitting back the way they used to, when they would watch applications flood their mail boxes and then end up turning away scores of students.

In fact, the ones I've been in touch with have been advertising for the first time in their history, because the economy had them worried about filling their desks.

Let me back up. Last week in a page-one story, "Enrolled in local schools: 200 more than projected," Christopher Outwin, chairman of the School Committee, is quoted saying that Pike School had fewer applicants this year than in years past. Apparently that statement came from a misunderstanding and it is not true.

David Frothingham, headmaster of Pike, local pre-kindergarten-ninth-grade private school, called us last Friday to say so.

I learned by talking with Mr.

Frothingham that applications were up at Pike for this school year, partly because the school spent roughly $1,000 advertising itself, a first ever for Pike.

For the 1991-'92 year, Pike had 220 completed applications. Last year, it had 181; and in '89 it had 183; 170 in 1988; 168 in '87; and 181 in '86. So you see, applications weren't down there.

However, Pike admitted more students this year than in years past, said the headmaster. It admitted 97 this year, when the school usually admits 65 to 70 students in the fall. Mr. Frothingham said Pike had more students than usual leaving because of the economy. Also, more than usual left from the eighth grade because, he said, it was a strong class and many were accepted by good schools and then went. That leaves Pike's ninth grade this year with just 12 students. It normally is a smaller class than the others in the school, but 12 is smaller than usual. Once, Mr. Frothingham said, the ninth grade had 10 students, but it has been as large as 31 students.

In fact, even though Pike has more total students this year than it usually admits - 398 and two more expected to arrive during the year, so 400, when it had 394 last year - Pike revised its target to a student body of 407 this year. He said if the school could locate qualified eighth- and ninth-graders, it would admit them during the fall term.

Things at Pike are different this year. "We've never advertised before," Mr. Frothingham told me. "We got a lot of response."

However, a lot of those who responded were discouraged by the tuition, which averages about $7,500, depending on the grade. It's $8,500 for ninth grade, $7,950 for eighth grade and $7,050 for grades 3-5, for example.

By mid-summer, Pike had just 340 "real hard numbers," said Mr. Frothingham, meaning those checks were in Pike's office. "We had a lot of people signed up who still hadn't paid," he said, "and we didn't know if they were going to pay."

So Pike advertised.

"If we had put (an ad) in the Andover Townsman 10 years ago, people would have said, 'Oh, oh. What's wrong with Pike?'" said Mr. Frothingham, who added that he didn't hear anything about the fact that Pike was advertising.

Will the school advertise again?

"Absolutely," said Mr. Frothingham, who said the school knows it has to work hard to market itself. Pike has planned an open house for

Working for fair politics

Editor, Townsmen:

When the politicians won't do the right thing, it's time for the people to take matters into their own hands. We'll be doing that right here in Andover this fall as the Campaign for Accountable Politics hits the streets collecting signatures on initiative petitions for comprehensive ethics and campaign finance reform.

For the last two years, the Massachusetts Legislature has failed to pass this essential legislation. Few legislators have supported this bill, which would eliminate some of the unfair advantages of incumbency, stop conflicts of interest and weaken the power of well-funded special interests.

The petition, like the bill, includes features which would place stringent limits on PAC (Political Action Committee) and lobbyist contributions, ban speaking fees, increase reporting requirements for large contributors (so that hidden patterns of special interest giving can be identified) and put teeth in our election laws.

This petition has been written and sponsored by Common Cause/Massachusetts, the non-profit, non-partisan citizen watchdog organization. If enough valid signatures (70,286) are collected state-wide, it will appear on the 1992 ballot as a binding question and the voters will have the opportunity to clean up state government themselves.

I have volunteered to coordinate the Andover effort. If any resident would like to help by recruiting signature-collectors or collecting signatures themselves from their friends, neighbors, at supermarkets, meetings, churches/temples, events etc. between Sept. 20 to Nov. 20, please call me anytime at 475-0224 or call Common Cause at 1-617-426-9600.

those who might be interested in sending their children to the school. It's scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 3, in the afternoon.

"The school is strong in terms of what it's doing, yet, the economy is making it tough to fill up. We need to attract the people who can afford it, or do it with financial aid," said Mr. Frothingham. "We are trying to be proactive, we are in the marketing business. We would have been in deep trouble if we had opened with 350 kids."

Each time an area community declines to override Proposition 2 1/2 for its schools, the private schools get more inquiries, said Mr. Frothingham.

"In general, we don't want to be in a position of benefiting from public schools' problems. I think it's healthy for people to have a choice of private or public schools. But this year, the economy being what it is, we aren't going to be complaining."

Enrollment at St. Augustine's School, on Central Street, is the largest it has been in six years, with a total of 450 students in kindergarten through eighth grade, reports Marie Galinski, principal.

The largest number of newcomers there are those at the middle school, said Dr. Galinski, who reports there are 50 students in the seventh grade, but just 30 in the eighth grade. Most grades at St. Augustine's have 25-27 per class, she said.

"Our numbers indicate we're pulling in kids at the middle-school level," said Dr. Galinski.

St. Augustine's has three levels of tuition costs: $1,340 for those whose families are parishioners and contributors at St. A's; $1,565 for those who are registered at another Catholic parish; and $2,205 for those who are not registered with a Catholic parish. The latter tuition price is the actual per-child cost at St. Augustine's, said Dr. Galinski.

More students applied at St. A's than in years past, she said; enrollment and applications were up about 5 percent.

"Just about everybody who applied got in," said Dr. Galinski.

Gary Coon explains his votes

By State Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover

Often in my reports to you, I've referred to my legislative priorities, which evolved from my conversations with people in our community. Number one on that list was the necessity of dealing with the budget crisis. Although we have made great progress on that, we've still got a long way to go.

Fiscal stability and an improved bond rating will not arise from a six-month period of bipartisan cooperation. The Legislature must show Wall Street we can sustain fiscal discipline and not return to the feeding frenzy of the past, where the Legislature said yes to every special-interest group that came to the table.

Over the past few weeks, we've been debating whether we should override Gov. Weld's vetoes of some budget items. The first issue taken up was the veto of funding for state employees' health insurance. The governor vetoed the appropriation because the amount fell far short of projected spending. The veto was designed to force the Legislature to come up with a new plan by Sept. 30.

Overriding the governor's veto means that the account is still underfunded, and the governor's only alternative is to increase co-payments and deductibles. This alternative merely shifts the burden to the sick and the elderly.

I was among only a few people who voted to let the override stand, because I believe overriding the veto was irresponsible. It delayed thoughtful resolution of a difficult issue (health-care costs is one of the "budget busters"), and will end up hurting those who really need help.

I opposed the override of the General Relief funding. Again, the governor vetoed this money to force the Legislature to reform the way we aid the needy. Our present general relief system is abused. Welfare has become a way of life for too many able-bodied people. I will continue to work toward tightening eligibility.

A few overrides came up, which created new government programs. For instance, two new positions are funded for an office of violence prevention. Several administrative agencies already deal with violence prevention and the administration feels it can provide the services needed with existing resources. A program to help employees buy their failing companies was also vetoed by the governor. Although I think employee ownership can be a terrific idea, I do not believe we can afford such efforts at this time. In a fiscally tight situation, good ideas often must remain on hold for reconsideration at another time.

I did vote in favor of one override. The Legislature appropriated $1.106 million for developing, administering and scoring a statewide assessment test and a statewide basic skills test. The governor had reduced this account by $553,000. Because I believe ing, take a long walk through Lawrence. I did Sunday, with about 60 people who took a Hike for Habitat, 6.2 miles through some pretty depressed neighborhoods in that city.

We had collected pledges, money for every mile we walked, to help cover the expenses in Habitat's drive to build housing from donated materials and volunteer labor for those who otherwise could not afford decent housing.

Part of me feels like a fool when I do something like that walk. I feel as if people in those rundown apartments are staring at us and telling each other that we from Andover are a bunch of do-gooders. I used to feel that way when I first started volunteering to help feed guests in a shelter for the homeless.

Now, I'm clear that most of those types of things that I do are more for me than for the groups or people I'm "helping." And I also have had to say I don't care if I look like a do-gooder. It makes me feel good to do my part, albeit minuscule in the grand scheme of things. But I find it painful to sit here in Andover when many of our neighbors don't have a warm place to call home.

Brookwood charges $7,800 for grades six, seven and eight; $6,860 for grades four and five; $6,150 for grades one, two and three; and $5,250 for kindergarten.

Gary Coon votes

(Continued from page 39) education is an investment area and because we need to ensure our schools are fulfilling their charge to provide each student with the skills necessary to participate successfully in society, I disagreed with Gov. Weld and voted to override his veto.

The final veto vote was to restore funding to the homeownership opportunity program, which subsidizes interest on second mortgages for low-income, first-time home buyers. This was the only veto which was sustained during last week's debate.

In my view, discussing individual items in the budget was a trap set up by the Legislative leadership. The budget should rightly be looked at as a whole, because when it's taken apart, the amount of each item seems inconsequential and the item's value indisputable.

But, as the old saying goes, a million here, a million there, and pretty soon we're talking about real money.

I hope I've adequately explained my votes. Please feel free to call or write my office if you have any questions: Rep.

AHS boys' soccer:

An emotional roller coaster

By Rick Harrison

If the opening week of regular season play is any indication, the Andover High boys' varsity soccer team will spend the fall of 1991 on an emotional roller coaster.

The Golden Warriors went from the top of the peak to the depths of the valley in a whirlwind 48-hour period, edging archrival Chelmsford 2-1 and then tying Methuen 1-1.

Haverhill.

Next week is a big one with three games, Central Catholic under the lights at Lovely Field on Monday (7 p.m.), powerhouse Wilmington and its scoring machine John Lynch on the road Wednesday, and Lowell (which also beat Chelmsford, 4-3) at Cawley Stadium Friday.

Andover, 2-1

Chelmsford edged AHS by a point lead under the lights at Lovely Field, Dan Patullo beating AHS senior goalkeeper Tim Plankey who was making his first varsity start.

Plankey was not beaten again, however, and the Warriors tied it 1-1 with three minutes left in the half when sophomore forward Quang Nguyen scored with the assist to junior linemate Keith Selvitelli.

Selvitelli, a converted stopper-back, also set up Nguyen's game-winner at the 13-minute mark of the second half.

"In both instances Quang showed good anticipation of a ball played out front of the Chelmsford net," said Amundsen.

"Did I leave anyone out?" offered Amundsen. "I hope not because everyone on the field contributed."

Plankey finished with five saves as Andover held a 14-8 edge in shots at net.

Andover-Methuen, 1-1

The Golden Warriors didn't work as hard against a veteran Methuen team, and it cost them what may later be a valuable point in the standings.

Once again the pesky opponent struck first, the Rangers' Elio Demelo converting a feed from Dan Grelle just three minutes into the contest.

Andover, whose speed and passing was neutralized by the smallness of the Methuen field, tied it with four minutes left in the half on Keith Selvitelli's first goal.

Brian Jones gave him a lead pass down the middle, and Selvitelli one-touched the ball past startled Rangers' netminder Chris Riccio.

The second half was scoreless.

"Methuen has practically everyone back and they pressured us the entire game," noted Amundsen. "The shots were pretty even (11-10 Andover), but their scoring chances

"The adrenalin was flowing against Chelmsford, because of who they are and the nature of the contest," said Coach Dave Amundsen. "But Methuen was a completely different story. I guess it didn't take very long for our kids to think they were invincible. It was a big letdown after that first win."

The results sent Andover into this week's play with a 1-0-1 record.

They return to action today at in the Merrimack Valley Conference title race last year, and both teams are expected to challenge for the MVC Large School Division championship once again this fall.

"This was a tremendous team effort," said Amundsen. "It was an excellent way to open the season, by beating last year's champs in a game where both teams played outstanding soccer."

Tiffany Rae Horne, 10, daughter of Timothy Horne and Dr. Rae Anderson, 94 Porter Road, won two major sports competitions this summer.

The petite 58-pounder won the singles tennis championships for girls 12 and under at Cedardale Athletic Club in August.

In July, Tiffany won the Brooks School Day Camp swimathon, an annual fundraiser, by swimming 202 laps non-stop, the equivalent of three miles. Tiffany also won the swimathon two years ago for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Tiffany is a fifth-grader at the Pike School.

Tiffany, an aspiring player in the New England Lawn and Tennis Association, trains with her coach four hours daily during the summer.

She won a tennis trophy from Cedardale and a 10-speed bike for the swimathon.

Lowell Volksmarch takes place Saturday, Sept. 28

The fourth annual Lowell Volksmarch, or people's walk, will take place Saturday, Sept. 28.

The 6.2 mile walk begins in the Market Mills Courtyard, 246 Market St., Lowell, where walkers can register and receive maps anytime from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The route follows city streets through historic downtown Lowell, crisscrosses the Merrimack River, explores parts of Belvidere and re-enters the downtown, ending at the Market Mills Courtyard no later than 5 p.m.

"Volksmarches evolved from sporting events held in Germany. People in the military stationed in Europe brought the tradition here to the U.S.," according to event organizer George Ryan.

The public is invited to participate free of charge.

The route is accessible to people in wheelchairs and with strollers. Volksmarch is sponsored by Walk 'N Mass Inc. and Lowell National Historical Park.

Walk's for cancer

The third annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk will be held Saturday, Oct. 5, rain or shine, following the route of the Boston Marathon.

Walkers may choose their starting point: Hopkinton Town Green, Hopkinton (26.2 miles) or the Pillar House Restaurant in Newton, (10 miles).

were more dangerous."

Tim Plankey was accidentally kicked in the hip early in the second half, suffering a bad bruise and leaving the game in favor of Jeff Breazeale. The pair combined for five saves.

Jones displayed excellent leadership, especially following the injury to Plankey which was not believed serious.

Other solid efforts came from Tim Maracle, Mark Baker and senior defender Brendan O'Leary.

Methuen, winless in the MVC last year and 1-16-2 overall in 1990, went to 0-1-1 after the tie.

The Andover JVs opened with two victories, edging Chelmsford 2-1 and blasting Methuen 6-0.

After one week of play

AHS girls' hockey is in first place

By Rick Harrison

Guess who's in first place?

Timely scoring by senior Tri-Captain Holly Clark, coupled with stingy goaltending by Julie DiLiegro, had the Andover High girls' varsity field hockey team alongside Wilmington at the top of the Merrimack Valley Conference after the first week of action.

The Lady Warriors opened with impressive shutout victories over Methuen, 1-0, and Haverhill, 2-0, leaving only AHS and Wilmington at 2-0-0 (four points) entering this week's play.

Coach Sandy Lunt's team has to work hard to stay on top, however, with home games this week against Chelmsford and Wilmington as well as a road contest tomorrow afternoon at Tewksbury (3:30 p.m.).

Andover, 1-0

Holly Clark's goal late in the second half snapped a scoreless tie and enabled the Lady Warriors to slip past Methuen in the season opener at Lovely Field.

Senior forward Grace Perry collected the assist, goalkeeper Julie DiLiegro was sharp with three saves en route to the shutout, and Tri-Captain Layne Whitley was an all-around standout at forward.

Andover, 2-0

Julie DiLiegro made seven saves to chalk up her second straight shutout, and the goals were netted by Holly Clark and junior midfielder Jinyi Joo.

Andover kept Hillies' netminder Kerri Dudley busy with 16 shots, and she came up with 14 saves to keep it close.

Passing out assists for AHS were junior forward Jen Batts, senior forward Carla Wade and Grace Perry.

Also eliciting praise from Coach Lunt were senior midfielder Rose Capomaccio and senior defender Megan O'Handley.

Andover JVs

The Andover junior varsity started out 1-0-1 following a 1-0 win over Methuen and 1-1 tie with Haverhill.

Heather Campbell scored the lone goal and Stacey Lavoie assisted against Methuen. Other standouts included Lee Clarke, Melissa O'Brien and the goaltending tandem of Tanella Smith and Danielle Spires who shared the shutout.

Heather Campbell stucked home another Stacey Lavoie pass against Haverhill, while Jen Kitowicz and Samantha Ford also played well for Coach George Walsh's squad.

AHS gridgers face Methuen tomorrow night

By Rick Harrison

Matt Daniels is the likely starter at quarterback, Jim Landry appears lost for the season, and suddenly the Andover High football team appears to have a formidable opening-night foe.

The Golden Warrior gridgers will be trying to stretch their carryover win streak to eight straight games tomorrow night, when Methuen (1-0-0) comes to town for a 7:15 p.m. contest at Eugene V. Lovely Memorial Field.

Coach Dick Collins's club completed pre-season preparations with another impressive scrimmage victory, 18-0 over Reading High, less than 24 hours after Methuen had played for real and hammered non-league foe Ayer High 30-12.

Methuen sharp

"Methuen has two excellent running backs (Davin Hoyt and Joe Cerami), and to beat them we'll have to stop or at least control those guys," explained Collins.

Both ran wild against Ayer, Hoyt gaining 141 yards in 17 carries and Cerami 109 in 12 carries. Hoyt scored two touchdowns and Cerami one.

"Methuen has concentrated on the ground game for centuries," said Collins. "They run the trap, dive and option as well as anyone.

"They don't throw the ball much, although their quarterback (Jason Danella) did show he could pass when necessary. Larry (Coach Klimas) usually has his team pass 6-7 times a game, always at the right times when you least expect it. They are very efficient with their air game," explained Collins.

"Defensively they looked quick and aggressive against Ayer. They got off the ball fast and covered the field well."

In Andover's fourth and final scrimmage tuneup with Reading last Saturday, the Warriors' first unit scored twice on runs by junior tailbacks Alan Guibord and Gary Lumley. A third touchdown was later added by outstanding sophomore prospect Matt Wolcott.

Collins lauded Guibord for his strong running throughout the scrimmage.

"It was very similar to the Wellesley scrimmage (24-0), although because of the rain we didn't throw the ball very much against Reading," noted Collins. "We also didn't want to reveal too much because the whole Methuen coaching staff was sitting in the stands."

Senior noseguard-fullback Dan Waitkevitch, who is nursing a shoulder injury, sat out for precautionary reasons.

Senior two-way end Mike Pettoruto suffered a knee injury on the first play of the scrimmage, and he was taken to the Doctors Park walk-in center for examination.

"It wasn't as bad an injury as we first feared," said Collins.

Pettoruto was scheduled to see his doctor earlier this week to determine his status for tomorrow night.

Landry lost

The tragedy of the scrimmage was the loss of senior two-way back and special teams performer Jim Landry.

"We've probably lost him for the season," said Collins. "I feel terrible because the kid has been through a lot the last few months. He broke a bone in his foot during the final baseball game, then came down with mono, and was just starting to look like himself again when this happened."

The speedy three-sport standout (track sprinter as well) re-injured his foot and will be out indefinitely.

"We're not even sure exactly when or how it happened," said Collins. "Jimmy limped over midway through the scrimmage and said he'd hurt his foot again."

Both quarterback candidates, seniors Matt Daniels and Jason McCue, played well against Reading.

The battle remains very close, although the starting nod is expected to go to Daniels tomorrow night. McCue will also be available and will see action in some capacity.

Starting lineups

The probable starting offensive backfield for Methuen has Daniels at quarterback, Guibord at left halfback, Waitkevitch at fullback and junior Steve Shepard at flanker.

Alternating at left end will be junior Scott Henry and Pettoruto if he's healthy.

The right ends, senior Todd Allard and junior Colin Arsenault, will also shuttle in and out.

Captains Erik Greenstein and Garrett Ferris will be the tackles, seniors Mark Sobieck and Dennis Godwin the guards, and junior Sean O'Leary the center.

Senior Scott Miner, hampered by a foot injury suffered in the Wellesley scrimmage, will also see action at center if available.

Defensively Allard and Pettoruto will double at ends, Greenstein and senior John Wilen will start at tackle and Captain Waitkevitch at noseguard.

The linebackers are Captain Ryan Kelly, Guibord and senior Bob Dalton, Shepard will patrol the safety position, and the cornerbacks will be chosen from among senior Rich Radulski, Daniels, McCue and Arsenault.

Unless kicking coach Peter Reilly makes a late change, Scott Henry will boot the PATs, Sean O'Leary will kick off and Steve Shepard will punt.

Andover has next weekend off and returns to action Saturday, Oct. 5 at Veterans Stadium against an improved Lawrence High team (1-0-0) that knocked off Northeast Regional of Wakefield 14-0 last Saturday.

This walk's for cancer . . .

Start times vary depending on location; the finish is at Copley Square Park in Boston. A minimum of $100 in pledges is required to enter the walk. All funds benefit the Jimmy Fund at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Applications may be picked up at any CVS store, including the one on Main Street.

Walk for Elders set for Sept. 29

"The second annual Walk For Elders planned for Sunday, Sept. 29, couldn't be happening too soon," said Barbara Brandt-Saret, coordinator of the event from Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley. "The need for assistance with services and meals by elder citizens across the valley is greater than ever. Cuts in state funding and the recession have really created severe problems for many older people."

The goal of the walk is $20,000, which will be shared between the elder nutrition programs across the valley and the Elder Services Elder Care fund, established to provide services or goods for elders when there are no other available financial resources.

Walkers of all ages are invited to begin the walk with Congressman Chet Atkins at 10 a.m. starting at the courtyard at Elder Services in Lawrence. There are three

AHS girls swim past Lawrence

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' swim team placed first in 11 of 12 events, sweeping the top three spots in nine, as the Lady Warriors cruised to a season-opening 74-37 Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet victory over Lawrence High last weekend at the Greater-Lawrence Regional pool.

"It was a good way to start, especially with so many new girls competing in their first high-school meet," said second-year Coach Patty Fitzgerald. "We had two girls qualify for the North Sectionals, and it was nice to see Lawrence come up with a first place (100 backstroke)."

Things get much tougher tomorrow afternoon when the AHS natators (1-0-0) return to the GLR pool for a 3:30 p.m. meet against visiting powerhouse Lowell High (1-0-0).

AHS swept the top two spots in all three relays against Lawrence, and had eight different girls finish first in individual events.

Multiple winners

Freshman Tracie Grant and Tri-Captain Michelle McCarthy were members of two winning relay teams, while senior transfer student Jane Berube swam on a first-place relay quartet and also captured an individual event.

Grant, McCarthy and Berube were joined in the 200 medley by senior Jill Ippolito (2:08.91 time). In the 400 freestyle relay it was Grant, sophomore Whitney Bates, junior veteran Molly Grassis and Tri-Captain Liz Smith, while the 200 freestyle had McCarthy, Tri-Captain Kasie Kearins, Jen Merenda and sophomore Megan Miller (2:05.28).

Second in the 200 medley relay were Karen Murphy, Karen Rock, freshman Jill Hriniaak and freshman Jamie Cistoldi (2:37.56).

The runnerup foursome in the 400 free consisted of sophomore Andrea Carpino, Amy Fantini, sophomore Diana Rita and sophomore Carrie Moran, and in the 200 free it was freshman Kristen Lawrence, freshman Elly Fantini, Ronit Shteyer and Ippolito (2:11.83).

Individual first place finishers were junior Courtney Chalfin in the 200 free (2:37.62), junior Chrissie Der-Ananian in the 200 IM (2:42.58), Diana Rita in the 50 free (36.57), sophomore Mandy Wilson in the 100 butterfly (1:26.77), junior Amy Strube in the 100 free (1:25.81), Jane Berube in the 500 free (6:13.99) and freshman Cindy Carlson in the 100 breaststroke (1:34.78).

Runnersup

Seconds went to freshman Lisa Crowley in the 100 backstroke (1:51.51), Whitney Bates in the 200 free (2:45.8), Amy Redgate in the 200 IM (2:58.38), junior Hila Horovitz in the 100 fly (1:27.34), freshman Joy Sanderson in the 100 free (1:29.39), Mindy Fox in the 500 free (6:54.31) and junior Amy Dixon in the 100 breast (1:39.54).

Capturing individual thirds for AHS were Alison Wolensky in the 200 free (2:57.13), Karen Murphy in the 200 IM (3:05.06), Jamie Ruben in the 50 free (42.70), Megan Miller in the 100 fly (1:29.11), Amy Wilkins in the 100 free (1:33.61), Carrie Moran in the 500 free (7:09.73) and Jill Hriniaak in the 100 breast (1:41.46).

Kristen Lawrence placed fourth in the 100 back (1:56.84) and sophomore Marilyn Spatola was fifth in the 50 free.

The Lady Warriors had six divers competing but only three of them were official.

Junior Deidre DeAngelis took first place on the board.

Race expected to draw many

The first Sheila Brodie Zetlan 10k Memorial Road Race will be held in Andover this Sunday, Sept. 22, to raise funds for breast cancer research.

Paul Tsongas, presidential candidate and a former U.S. senator, and Dr. Susan Love, director of Faulkner Breast Center in Boston, noted oncologist and acclaimed author, are the honorary co-chairpersons for the race.

The 10-kilometer race starts at 1 p.m. Sunday. It will start and finish at Temple Emanuel on Haggetts Pond Road.

Mrs. Zetlan, 42, a 14-year resident of Andover, died in April, 1990, of breast cancer. Her husband, Howard, is a dentist with a practice in Dracut. Their son, Mike, 19, is a student at Georgetown University and Peter, 13, is a student at West Middle School.

In her memory, the Sheila Brodie Zetlan Breast Cancer Research Foundation was established by her husband and her sister, Judith Brodie, of Washington, D.C., for the sole purpose of raising money for breast cancer research.

The money contributed to the foundation will be donated to medical centers committed to research seeking a cure for breast cancer, a disease which effects one out of nine American woman, according to the race sponsors.

The race is sanctioned by The Athletic Congress and is open to runners and walkers of all levels.

For race information, or to volunteer to help out on race day, call Myrna Jaffe, 475-4132.

Indian Ridge swimmers celebrate 3-3 season

The Indian Ridge swim team recently held its annual end-of-the-season banquet. Third-year year head coaches Jeff Hart, Michele Fox and J.B. Burgess were pleased with the team's 3-3 record, noting that many pool and league records were broken during the season.

The coaches presented the follow-choices of courses that wind through North Andover. Upon return to Elder Services, walkers will be treated to entertainment, refreshments, prizes and awards. The event will be held rain or shine.

From the $15,000 raised by 250 walkers in 1990: 3,000 additional meals were served; two new meals on wheels routes were added; new congregate meal site in North Andover; more than 30 elders have been helped with services such as chore, ambulance transportation, assistance with moving and other items such as a wheel chair, furniture, clothing and food. Each situation is handled individually.

"Sometimes we don't realize the extent of the need of older citizens in our area. The past year has been tough for many. The Walk For Elders provides a day of fun for everyone while raising needed funds," said Rosanne DiStefano, executive director of Elder Services, sponsor of the event with the nutrition programs.

Those who can't walk can sponsor someone or make a donation.

AHS golf team loses one, wins one

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High golf team received a season-opening jolt when Chelmsford, like a spider trapping a fly, "lured" the Golden Warriors to Apple Country Club and used the home course advantage to register a 7-1/2 to 4-1/2 victory.

Coach Bob Lawson's squad bounced back smartly 24 hours later, however, with a resounding 8-1/2 to 1-1/2 romp over Dracut at Indian Ridge.

With Methuen having already knocked off six-time defending Large School champ Haverhill, 5-4, and Chelmsford owning a 5-4 win over reigning Small School titlist Tewksbury, the Merrimack Valley Conference looks as balanced as it's been in many years.

AHS (1-1-0) opened a busy 10-day stretch earlier this week with back-to-back matches against Central Catholic at Pine Valley (Pelham, N.H.) and Indian Ridge.

Today the Warriors travel to face Haverhill (1-1-0) at Haverhill Country Club, tomorrow they host Lowell, next Monday they battle Billerica at the Country Club of Billerica, and a week from today Tewksbury invades Indian Ridge.

Andover-Chelmsford

"We just didn't play good golf (in the opener) at Chelmsford," admitted Coach Lawson. "It was a disappointing day for us. The kids were very tight and it showed."

"Apple (Country Club) is a short, tough course where you have to keep the ball in play. You can't be too aggressive. You have to lay up on almost every hole."

"But most of our kids insisted on going for the greens, which are postage stamp size, and they paid the price," said Lawson.

Winning head-to-head matches for Andover were senior Co-Captain Jim Ofria, arguably the best golfer in the MVC this fall, and junior Justin Hesenius.

Ofria, who was also medalist for the day with a nine-hole score of 38, rallied from two down to edge Dave Carlson 1-up on the final hole.

Ofria was playing No. 1 and Hesenius was No. 6 man.

Senior Co-Captain Matt Harris, slotted No. 2, and senior No. 7 Rich Yost flatted their matches to earn a half-point apiece.

Ofria and Harris also captured their fourball point.

"I just told everyone to forget about it and try to relax a little more," said Lawson when it was over.

Andover-Dracut

Apparently the advice to loosen up worked against Dracut (1-1-0), although the Middies are not the same caliber competition as Chelmsford.

"Still they were surprisingly good," said Coach Lawson. "We played much better and it was a better golf course (Indian Ridge). The first-day jitters were gone, and the kids knew they could hit the ball a little harder without getting into serious trouble."

"To a person they played with more confidence. The shots were a lot truer."

Ofria, Harris and No. 3 Greg LeBreck were playing on their summertime home course, while the oth-

Girls' soccer, winner last five years, faces challenge this year

By Rick Harrison

Judging from its first two games, the Andover High girls' varsity soccer team will be challenged like never before in the Merrimack Valley Conference this fall.

The Lady Warriors have won five consecutive league titles, each one slightly more difficult to annex than the last.

Last week, in consecutive home games under the lights, AHS nipped Chelmsford 1-0 and battled to a 1-1 tie with Billerica who is the only MVC opponent to ever beat Andover.

"The league should be a real horse race," said Coach Dick Loschi. "We could have as many as five of the seven teams slugging it out for first place. There is more parity across the board than ever before."

"We probably won't run away and hide as we have in the past. Nobody can think they're a sure thing to win it."

"There had to be a time when things cooled off a bit, and the gap between Andover and the rest of the league narrowed," said Loschi. "The best thing is we got through the first week without losing."

The victory over Chelmsford, incidentally, was the 97th for Loschi at AHS.

Play resumed earlier this week at Dracut, and tomorrow the Lady Warriors (1-0-1) open their non-league schedule by hosting Beverly High.

Three more home games are listed next week against Lowell (Tuesday), Wilmington (Thursday) and Tewksbury (Saturday, 7 p.m.).

Andover, 1-0

"It was a very nervous and tentative start for us," admitted Loschi. "We're young, but Chelmsford (1-1-0) deserves credit for coming right at us from the beginning. It's one of the better Chelmsford teams I've seen."

"Our veterans eventually settled us down."

Junior defender Lindsey Sweeney scored the game's only goal at 26 minutes of the first half, assist to senior sweeper and Co-Captain Amy Heseltine.

Heseltine took a direct kick from 25 yards out on the left, lofting the ball to the far post where Sweeney headed it into the net.

Playing well for Andover were senior midfielder Catherine Cornell and, in their varsity debut, junior defender Colleen Murnane and junior forward Becky Levine.

Junior shutout goalkeeper Beth Everett made nine saves for the winners.

Andover-Billerica, 1-1

The locals bounded to a 1-0 lead late in the first half, but could muster no further sustained offense and settled for the tie when Billerica (1-0-1) connected midway through the second half.

"It was a very disappointing game," said Loschi. "We didn't have one shot on net in the second half, and we let the game get away from us. We abandoned our passing attack, started playing kick ball and allowed Billerica to dictate the tempo and flow."

Senior forward and Co-Captain Nicole Angelos gave Andover its 1-0 lead with two minutes left in the first half.

Amy Heseltine, who notched the assist, took a shot whose rebound was misplayed by Billerica goalie Alison Morrissey and rammed home by Angelos.

The Indians tied it at 23 minutes of the second half, as Tanya Yavarow scored unassisted off an indirect kick.

Beth Everett made 14 saves and Morrissey had five for BMHS as Andover was outshot.

Turning in top efforts for the Lady Warriors were sweeper Alyssa Sonntag, forced out of the game with leg cramps, junior defender Cara Morrison and senior midfielder Julie Connor.

Andover JVs

The AHS junior varsity started 2-0-0 with a pair of tight one-goal triumphs over Chelmsford (3-2) and Billerica (2-1).

Goalscorers in the first contest were Amy Cassidy, tennis star Alison Georgian and Chrissy Donovan. Goaltender Suzanne Doucette (10 saves) registered the win and Sarah Paskowsky was a defensive standout.

Amy Pierro netted the first goal and set up the second by Chrissy Donovan against Billerica. Suzanne Doucette again stopped 10 shots, while defensive leaders were Rachael Buonopane and Kim Germain.

Golden Cue to host billiard championships this weekend

The Golden Cue in Lawrence will host the first annual N.E. 3 cushion billiard championship Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 21 and 22.

Billiards was one of the most popular sports in the United States in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

The game lost its popularity after World War II.

The Golden Cue is one of only a few rooms capable of hosting a major 3 cushion tourney with its four Kling-Arcade tables manufactured in 1910. They weigh 2,300 pounds each and sit on a reinforced concrete floor.

The championship will start at 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Entry fee is $110. Public is welcome with no charge.

Capt. Peter R. Crocker of Andover, a member of the 133rd Air Refueling Squadron, New Hampshire Air National Guard in Newington, was recently awarded the General James E. Cuddihoe Airmanship Award.

This award is presented annually to the Air National Guard crew member who best exemplifies the spirit of high standards of professionalism.

In civilian life Capt. Crocker is the general manager of PGA Realty Trust in North Andover.

He has been a member of the NHANG for more than 10 years and is assigned as an aircraft commander. He and his wife, Ronalee, have three children.

Matt Marvin moves the Prep past mighty Brockton

By Rick Harrison

Andover resident Matt Marvin helped engineer one of the biggest high school football upsets in years last weekend, quarterbacking St. John's Prep of Danvers to a 22-21 overtime victory over perennial Massachusetts and nationally-ranked powerhouse Brockton High.

The 6'4" Marvin, an outstanding basketball and baseball player as well, scored one touchdown during regulation time on a seven yard run.

In overtime, with SJP trailing 21-14, Marvin tossed a 10-yard TD pass to Dan Fabrizio and then pitched the decisive two-point conversion aerial to Kevin Dwan to complete the stunning triumph.

Although St. John's has been a strong team in recent years, Brockton has won several Eastern Mass. Division 1 Super Bowls and enjoys a national reputation after being ranked among the Top 20 schools in the country several times by USA Today.

Brockton, in fact, was the nation's No. 1 team two years ago when it suffered another rare loss to Leominster High.

SJP led 7-0 heading into the fourth quarter of last week's season opener for both schools.

Brockton tied it on a nine-yard TD run by Rashied Jones, the first of his three touchdowns.

Marvin's seven-yard run put the Eagles back on top, 14-7, but Jones scored again late in the fourth quarter to force overtime.

The OT format calls for both teams to run four downs from the opponent's 10 yard line until a cycle has been completed with one team ahead.

Brockton ran the first series and scored on a one-yard plunge by Jones. Mark Pileski kicked his third straight PAT to make it 21-14 and place the pressure squarely on Coach Jim O'Leary's host club.

Marvin responded with the 10-yard scoring pass to Fabrizio, making it 21-20, and the subsequent all-important two-point conversion toss to Dwan.

Marvin has also traveled around the country playing for several AAU youth basketball All-Star teams the past few years, and he was a member of the Andover Gold baseball team in the Suburban Pony League the past three summers.

Matt is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Marvin, 17 Mohawk Road.

High school golfers lose one, win one

er Warriors were getting their first look at Indian Ridge this season.

Jim Ofria once again was medalist with a sizzling one-under 35, Matt Harris fired a 39 and junior LeBreck carded a 41.

Those three won their matches handily, as did freshman No. 5 man Dan Hansberry and senior No. 6 Ted Ratyna.

Senior John Gabriel, slotted No. 4, flatted his match.

The Golden Warriors added their final three points by sweeping the fourball competition.

Girls' volleyball opens with 3 impressive wins

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' varsity volleyball team overpowered three opponents last week, kick-starting the 1991 campaign with impressive 2-0 romps over non-league Bishop Fenwick (15-3, 15-1), Methuen (a rare 15-0, 15-0 double shutout) and Lowell (15-5, 15-9).

The bubble burst this past Monday, however, when AHS fell out of a first place Merrimack Valley Conference Large School tie following a 2-1 loss to Billerica. Andover won the middle game against the Indians, 16-14, but lost the first 15-3 and the third 15-2.

The Lady Warriors (3-1 overall, 2-1 MVC), whose schedule toughened considerably this week with Lawrence (2-1) and Chelmsford (3-2), may still be one of the best in the state this fall.

The Methuen match, in particular, was awesome because it was like pitching a perfect game. It took just 20 minutes for AHS to dispatch the Rangers.

Individually senior Co-Captain Lee Conserva accomplished a volleyball rarity, serving 15 straight points in the second game after she had served nine in a row to highlight the first contest.

Andover-Fenwick

"We made some first-match mistakes in positioning on the serve and service reception," said Co-Coach Art Iworsley after the 15-3, 15-1 romp over Fenwick at Peabody.

"That's why we like to play a non-leaguer before we get started in the Merrimack Valley Conference. It gives us a chance to get all the mistakes out of our system.

"Bishop Fenwick was tall, but you could see our girls playing with more and more confidence as the match went on," added Iworsley.

Lee Conserva scored 10 points, including five service aces, and also was a top setter.

Defensive standouts for Andover were senior Lee Hendricks and Co-Captain Meghan Mueller.

Andover-Methuen

Lee Conserva was nearly perfect with nine points, including three aces, in the first game before she "ran the table" in the second game at the Dunn Gymnasium.

"Methuen just couldn't return her serve," said Iworsley. "After the 15-0 opener we made some substitutions, but it didn't matter. Methuen tried everything to break Lee's concentration, like calling timeouts, but she was in an incredible groove.

"I was asked after the match why I didn't replace her at the service line. It's like a baseball pitcher who's throwing a no-hitter. Unless there are unusual circumstances you leave the player in and let 'em go for it.

"Methuen has some good athletes and we expect them to be more competitive the next time (Oct. 7 at Methuen)."

Only five AHS players served in the opening game: Lee Hendricks, senior Stephanie Kupa, sophomore Carrie Green, junior Kerry Hegarty and Conserva.

Andover-Lowell

Once again the locals got on a roll and couldn't be stopped, finding the high ceiling at Lowell's Riddick Memorial Fieldhouse to their liking. "There's no panicking in a gym like that because the ceiling is so high," said Coach Iworsley. "You can cover a large area and make shots you might have difficulty making in a smaller gym.

"Lowell (1-1) is a solid team but we just played very well once again."

Lee Conserva did it all in this match, her accurate serving complemented by backcourt defense, hard spikes and strong blocking.

Lee Hendricks remained a ball magnet, making all the right moves, while top hitters were Stephanie Kupa, Carrie Green and Kerry Hegarty.

Defensive standouts were senior Alexis Campbell, junior Julie Doherty, senior Cara Conserva and Meghan Mueller.

Andover JVs

The Andover junior varsity also jumped off to a 3-0 start with victories over Bishop Fenwick (2-0), Methuen (2-1) and Lowell (2-1).

Standouts in the 15-8, 15-4 sweep of Fenwick were juniors Joanna Moynihan (kills), Sarah Tully (four service aces), Melissa Minot (two aces), Julie Gediman (setting) and Holly Wright (setting).

In the 15-5, 13-15, 15-10 decision over Methuen key players were junior Sarah Schmuhl (serving and serve-receiving), junior Erinne Sullivan (defense and passing), freshman Annmarie Hussey (hitting), Melissa Minot and Holly Wright.

In the unusual 15-3, 14-16, 15-3 triumph over Lowell, Sarah Schmuhl served nine straight points in the first game and top operators in the third contest included Erinne Sullivan, Holly Wright (defense), Annmarie Hussey, Sarah Tully and Melissa Minot.

Arrests made in 1989 law school fire

By Don Staruk

Two men, including the former head of the former Commonwealth School of Law in Lowell, were arrested Tuesday night and charged with setting a fire that damaged the library at the Massachusetts School of Law in Dundee Park two years ago.

Michael J. Boland, 43, of Ormond Beach, Fla., co-founder and former president of the original Commonwealth School of Law, from which the Massachusetts School of Law was a spinoff, was arrested by Daytona, Fla., police acting on a warrant from Andover police. He was charged with arson and conspiracy to commit a felony.

Edward T. Dillon, 40, whose last known address is a boarding house on Tyngsboro Road in Chelmsford, was arrested at that address about two hours before Mr. Boland. He faces the same charges.

Andover detectives David Grant and Donald Pattullo said Wednesday that the arrests came after they received additional information on the case about two weeks ago.

Mr. Boland was president of the Commonwealth School of Law in 1988 when Lawrence Velvel, then a professor and dean at the school, and several associates and students left Commonwealth to start the Massachusetts School of Law in Dundee Park. The move came amidst what has been called "chaos" at Commonwealth.

Commonwealth was then bought by Emerson College and closed in the fall of 1989.

The falling out between Mr. Boland and Dean Velvel resulted in "certain threats" allegedly by Mr. Boland, according to Detective Grant.

On the night of October 23, 1989, a fire in the bottom floor of the Massachusetts School of Law burned law books, some of which were antiques, and caused $300,000 in damage. Accelerants were used and an investigation began by police. Both Mr. Boland and Mr. Dillon were questioned at the time, but police lacked physical evidence to bring any charges, according to Detective Grant.

The case remained open, but inactive, until about two weeks ago when police received additional information sufficient to make the arrests. Detectives would not say what the new evidence was.

It took police a while to find Mr. Dillon. He was located in the boarding house and arrested at about 9 p.m. Tuesday. Andover police then contacted Daytona police, who had Mr. Boland under surveillance for an unrelated investigation in Florida, and they made the arrest there a couple of hours later.

Mr. Dillon was being arraigned in Lawrence District Court Wednesday morning after the Townsmen went to press.

The Essex County district attorney's offices began proceedings Wednesday morning to extradite Mr. Boland back to Massachusetts to face a grand jury. Howard Whitehead, the assistant district attorney, hoped to start a trial in about a week, according to detectives.

Detectives Pattullo and Grant said Mr. Boland used to live in Tyngsboro and that a suspicious fire burned a barn he owned there about a year before the law school fire.

Dean Velvel is still at the helm of the Massachusetts School of Law, which recently moved from the 3 Dundee Park location to a new building in Woodland Park, off River Road.

Andover's retirement investments are down Andover ranked 80 out of 107 pension funds

By Don Staruk

Andover's $15 million retirement investments lost 0.12 percent in 1990, ranking 80 out of 107 public pension funds in Massachusetts, according to a state analysis.

The analysis, by the Massachusetts Division of Public Employee Retirement Administration, also reported that Andover received a 10.67 percent return on investments during the five-year period from 1985-1990, ranking 45 in the state.

Selectman William Downs and Town Accountant Rodney Smith, both members of the Andover Retirement

Board, were not bothered by the poor numbers for this year.

"Maybe not on the surface, but we're really doing pretty well," Mr. Downs said.

"We did drop a little bit," Mr. Smith said. "In light of the whole economy in general, I think we're holding our own."

Other funds, including the state's Pension Reserves Investment Trust, the state's "superfund," did much worse, according to Mr. Smith. PRIT dropped from 16 last year to 103 this

SPORTS

Bantam A hockey team opens season with success

The Andover Bantam A hockey team (ages 14-15) opened its season this past weekend on a successful note.

Andover 8 - North Andover 0

Chris Cullen scored the first two goals of the season against North Andover on his way to a three goal hat trick. Ryan Jacobson assisted on all three with some hard work and excellent passing.

Ryan Moynihan chipped in with a goal and two assists, while Jeff Pothier and Peter Volpe had one of each. Scott Munroe and Dana DiFiore tallied one goal apiece. Marc Escott and Matt Johnson each registered two assists and Dan Hansberry and Bryan Kwon each assisted once. Goaltender Peter Afarian was tested several times by the Scarlet Knights but answered the challenge each time for the shutout. Jeff Hesenius had a strong defensive game and Mike Dalton worked his wing tirelessly.

Andover 6 - Lexington-Bedford 2

In a game that was closer than the final score indicated, the Andover team came up with a solid team effort to defeat Lexington-Bedford by a score of 6-2. Again it was Chris Cullen who "lit the lamp" first for the Golden Warriors with assists going to Dan Hansberry and Dana DiFiore. Andover jumped to a 2-0 lead three minutes into the game when Mike Dalton converted from a scramble in front with assists going to Scott Munroe and Ryan Moynihan. After Lexington-Bedford narrowed the score to 2-1, Cullen stole the puck at the blue line, walked in alone and scored an unassisted goal. Ryan Moynihan closed out the first period scoring at 4:1 when he took assists from Bryan Kwon and Matt Johnson, skated around the defense and snapped a high shot to the far corner.

The only goal of the second period was scored by Lexington-Bedford with 29 seconds remaining.

Ryan Moynihan eased the pressure with a goal half way through the final period converting a pass from Scott Munroe. Bryan Kwon closed the scoring in the final minute of play when his wrist shot from the right face-off circle found its way through a screen of players and into the net. He was assisted by Ryan Moynihan and Mike Mazza. The defense of Hansberry, Hesenius, Johnson, and Mazza had a strong game and, once again, Afarian was solid in net. Marc Escott, Peter Volpe, and Ryan Jacobson skated hard and cleared the puck from the Andover zone numerous times to thwart the Lexington-Bedford attack.

Mr. Downs said the retirement board used to make decisions on investments, but in 1988 switched over to a professional investment management service because of state restrictions on the type of investments individual boards were allowed to make.

Andover's investment management firm has been making some of the state required changes in the town's investment portfolio, having to realize some losses in the process.

In 1987 the town's investments ranked 60 overall. That went to 59 in 1988 and 79 in 1989.

"I'd like to be up in the top five," Mr. Smith said. "The problem is we take a fairly conservative approach."

Andover sticks with blue chip purchases, according to Mr. Smith, which is why there are no big changes. Those that did either very well or very poorly in the last couple of years are in more dynamic investments.

"It's more important that the money is there when people retire," Mr. Smith said.

'I'd like to be up in the top five. The problem is we take a fairly conservative approach.'

Rodney Smith, town accountant

"All in all, I think we fared pretty well. We're basically holding our own. We're not going down in the ranks."

The statewide average return in 1990 was 1.65 percent. That return in the 1985-1990 period was 10.97 percent, according to the state analysis.

The Andover Retirement Board now invests in excess of $15 million, 41.42 percent in stocks, 48.51 percent in bonds and 10.08 percent in cash.

The top performer in 1990 was Easthampton at 8.2 percent. The bottom was Newton at negative 4.57 percent.

The top performer in the 1985-1990 period was Taunton at 13.55 percent. The bottom was the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District at 6.61 percent.

Fair set for Saturday at West Parish Church

The Greater Lawrence Council of Churches will hold a fund-raising fair at West Parish Church, 129 Reservation Road, Saturday, Sept. 21, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A luncheon will be provided by West Parish's Women's Evening Circle.

The council is a group of 34 churches in Lawrence, Methuen, Andover and North Andover working together to increase ecumenism. It sponsors vacation bible school, including curriculum, arts and crafts, coordinators and refreshments. Utilizing 12 sites this summer, nearly 500 children participated.

The council also supplies chaplain salaries at Holy Family and Lawrence General hospitals and worship service for shut-ins and other interested listeners.

HISTORY

By Virginia Lopez Begg

Remember how Mom always told you that people did not notice your clothes and get upstairs and change right now! Mom was right, as usual. Not only that but it turns out that people keep right on noticing your clothes even after you're long gone from this earth.

That disconcerting piece of news is the basis for an upcoming program at the Andover Historical Society. "Studying Costume in Portraits," a slide-lecture by Jessica Nicoll of Old Sturbridge Village, will take a look at a wide variety of pictures of New Englanders from the early 19th century to see what stories their clothing has to tell. Open to the public, the program will take place Wednesday, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the society's Main Street headquarters. There is a small admission fee.

Jessica Nicoll, a graduate of Smith College and the Winterthur Program in Early American Culture, is curator of textiles at Old Sturbridge Village. Her talk will show how the clothing of everyday people reveals much about them and their times. Early 19th-century New England witnessed many changes. The Industrial Revolution affected farming as well as manufacturing and the economic good times were reflected in many aspects of daily life.

Growing wealth allowed people to buy more clothes. Industrialization took cloth and shoemaking from hand work to the factory, so there was much more available to buy. People felt good about themselves and their society and wanted to have their portraits painted to remember it all. While the very wealthy turned to artists such as Copley and Sargent, the average New Englander depended on itinerant portrait painters. Likeness guaranteed, or no charge, promised Rufus Porter in an old Haverhill newspaper.

Folk artists such as these unknowingly did their part to record the everyday life of ordinary people. The clothing and accessories that appear in their paintings are historical documents with many a tale to tell.

Listeners may be surprised at some of Jessica Nicoll's revelations. Perhaps some of them will be inspired to save those old bell-bottoms from the '60s. After all, the Smithsonian or the Andover Historical Society may want to exhibit them some day.

Come to the lecture early and enjoy viewing the society's exhibition, "Dressing for the Occasion: Fashion for Life's Celebrations," as it ends Oct. 18.

Open hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Wednesday evenings until 8:30.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Lance, Skip, Ruth and Ralph Adie of Ye Loft and Ladle

Ye Loft and Ladle

Located in the heart of downtown Lawrence on Essex Street is a very special restaurant. The interior of the restaurant welcomes you with its wood paneled walls, antiques and plants and tables nestled in intimate corners. Ye Loft and Ladle, owned by Lance T. Adie, his mother, Ruth Adie, and his brother, Ralph E. (Skip) Adie III, reflects the family's warmth and hospitality. The original Loft and Ladle, started by Ralph E. Adie, Jr. in 1978, was located just a block away and the family prides itself on retaining the same friendly, courteous service at the new restaurant.

Ye Loft and Ladle is known for the fine quality of their homemade foods. Customers come from all around the area to enjoy the fresh roasted turkeys, the anadama bread and the carrot cake. All the bread, muffins and the desserts are made fresh daily. You can start your day with a huge 1/3 pound muffin (too many varieties to list, but blueberry is a specialty) and a cup of coffee. For lunch you can enjoy a sandwich on homemade bread, one of the many salads (large enough for two) or a hot platter. You can even get a peanut butter, honey and banana sandwich.

On Thursday and Friday evenings, Ye Loft and Ladle is open for dinner. The menu ranges from prime rib to baked stuffed shrimp, from chicken parmesan to shrimp scampi, and they now serve beer and wine to complement your dinner choices. The restaurant is also available for small functions and private parties.

For a special meal of wonderful home-cooked delicacies, come join the Adie family at Ye Loft and Ladle, located at 337 Essex St., Lawrence. The restaurant is open M-W 7:30-5, Th & F 7:30-9 and Sat. 7-11 for breakfast. The phone number is 687-3933.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Dr. Nick's Transmissions

If you are having transmission problems and don't know where to go for service, call Dr. Nick's Transmissions on South Broadway in Lawrence. This shop is the newest in the successful franchise chain that extends from Massachusetts to Florida. Dr. George, Dr. Steve and Dr. Reggie are eager to help you and to cure your transmission troubles.

The original Dr. Nick, Nicholas Costa, started his first shop in 1971 after many years in the business and was so successful that by 1977 he had six more shops. Realizing that the need for such specialized service was going to grow, Dr. Nick began franchise operations in 1978. A Dr. Nick's shop offers you all the expertise of the original Dr. Nick, but close to home.

Americans are keeping their cars longer and transmissions are getting more complex, all of which points out why this service has become so important. Reggie and Steve have both received certification from the Automatic Transmission Rebuilders Association and continue to upgrade their skills and knowledge with professional courses. Dr. Nick's is connected to a network of repair shops which gives them access to years of experience and expertise when they need answers. They give a one-year or 12,000-mile guarantee on their work and have a system of reciprocal courtesy service shops across the country to help you wherever you might be.

Dr. Nick's Transmissions is dedicated to giving you friendly, fast and courteous service. Customer satisfaction is a top priority. So remember them when your transmission starts giving you problems.

Located close to the Andover-Lawrence line, at 220 So. Broadway, Dr. Nick's is open from 8-6 Monday through Friday and 8-1 p.m. on Saturday. The phone number is 685-8330 and George says the Nike doesn't bite, he just barks.

Artisans would be able to sell from their homes

let Street.

"We wanted to ensure people were not violating the intent of residential zoning" by continually holding sales from their homes, said Town Planner Laura Hill.

Last December, Building Inspector Sam DeSalvo told the Townsmen he thought the house-to-house and other similar residentially-based business in town were "getting totally out of hand." Mr. DeSalvo said his office received numerous calls during the 1989 Christmas season complaining about blocked roads and safety hazards.

Ms. Hill said the bylaw amendments weren't prompted by problems with residents holding yard sales once or twice a year, but more by people continually selling items from their homes.

Christmas sales

"We just want to be able to have our house sales again at Christmas time," said Mrs. Dearborn.

"They (planning department) were concerned over the point that it violated the town's laws. We were happy when they decided to approach Town Meeting to make amends," she said.

The changes would allow any resident to apply at least seven days ahead of time for a $2, two-day permit to sell second-hand articles, antiques, crafts and other items found or produced in a home. The town's building inspector would issue the permits, which would be limited to two per calendar year for each residence.

The planning department is working with the town's lawyer to iron out language in the final amendment that will be voted on at Town Meeting. As it stands right now, the building inspector will have to provide the police department with a list each week of all the addresses where permits were given.

The planning department believes in the precautionary measure in case of any problems with parking, traffic obstruction and pedestrian safety, said Ms. Hill.

Town codes regulating how signs may be posted will apply for all house sales if the bylaw is amended, she said. Signs or advertisements cannot be affixed to town property or utility poles within a public way, Ms. Hill said.

It takes a two-thirds vote of town meeting to amend the zoning bylaw.

Unpaid taxes cost the town $750,000

The outstanding debt does not negatively affect the town's budget or spending because the debts are considered collectible revenue, according to Mr. Muise.

One property owner this week paid roughly $5,000 he owed. Another property owner, Jordan Burgess, of 5 Peppercorn Lane, is responsible for almost half of the $750,000 that remains outstanding.

Mr. Burgess owes $361,034.41 for two properties in Dundee Park on Railroad Street.

One property he owns there, where the Massachusetts School of Law was located, one of the larger tenants in the Dundee Park office complex for the last couple years, recently moved to West Andover.

Mr. Burgess received a blessing from the Board of Selectmen last month to go ahead with efforts to

'I think it's the economy. People are finding it very difficult.'

Mike Muise, town treasurer build another road into Dundee Park from Lupine Road to make the property more attractive for development.

Mr. Muise said $750,000 is a lot of money to be outstanding for any town, and that the number of delinquents this year and last are the worst he's seen in his 25 years working for the town.

"I think it's the economy," Mr. Muise said. "People are finding it very difficult."

The average number of delinquents is usually about 10, Mr. Muise said.
